WILSON

Foreword: There are a number of Wilson families in Rockbridge County, at least six being discernable. A certain Robert Wilson died in 1745 and John was one of his surviving children. John was twice married and died in 1754; two of his four children were James and William. These could have been the following.

1. James Wilson, immigrant from Ireland to America; landed at Philadelphia; ultimately came to headwaters of the James where, by 1760, he owned 382 acres of land on Kennedy's Mill Creek, in Borden's Grant; on Oct. 30, 1798, he became owner of land on Buffalo Creek. (Rockbridge D.B. "D," 222.) He died in 1824. The name of his wife is not of record.

   Issue:—

   1.1. James, never married.

   1.2. John, married Nancy Hall, daughter of Capt. James Hall; after his death, the widow married Dec. 6, 1832, John Scott; the Wilsons lived on the George Rader farm in rear of Old Oxford Church.

and the loss of this brilliant boy, who was a born lawyer, so shattered the nerves of his father and mother that they were never able to overcome the blow caused by his death. Charlas P. Goff, after a three years course at the West Virginia University, was compelled to give up his studies without graduation because of failure of eyesight. The records of the family have been carefully kept, and Charles Goff can extend the family tree to include thirty-two ancestors, among them being not only the Goffs, but also the families of the Earles, the Buckeys, the Waldos and the Leonards, each having an extensive history of its own. A German Bible belonging to Mrs. Goff was printed in 1545, and a badge that was worn at the inauguration of President Washington is among the family souvenirs.

H.

JONATHAN HUTTON was of Welch descent. His father was Abraham Hutton who left Wales when sixteen years of age and landed at Philadelphia, where he remained several years, and about 1765, as is believed, he went to the South Branch in the present county of Hardy. In a short time he returned to Philadelphia, married Miss Evans and returned to South Branch where the following children were born: Moses, Peter and Jonathan, the last named being the subject of this sketch. Jonathan alone came to Randolph County and no further mention of his brothers is necessary, nor is it possible to give much information concerning them, as but little is known. When Abraham Hutton left Wales he possessed what few boys of that time could boast of—a shot gun. It was six feet long and by no means graceful in its outline, but he brought it to America, kept it many years, than gave it to his son Jonathan who brought it to Randolph where it remained in the family as a relic of old times, and its last lawful owner was Warwick Hutton who had it at the beginning of the war. But the Yankees concluded that a gun was a dangerous thing in the hands of a Hutton, and they took it, carried it to Beverly, where they exhibited it as a curiosity, and it finally disappeared.

Jonathan Hutton was born in Hampshire County, now Hardy, June 3, 1769. In May, 1790, he married Mary Troutwine, a German lady. Her father was body-physician to Frederick the Great, of Prussia, but becoming weary with the formality of court life, and being unable longer to endure the overbearing beheavior of his kingly master, he ran away and came to America which then, as now, offered a refuge to those who wished to escape tyranny in Europe. The following named children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Hutton: Elizabeth, Sarah, Moses, Nancy, Catherine, John Adams, Fannie, Abraham, Mary. All, or nearly all, of these were born in Randolph County. Jonathon Hutton came to this county about 1795 and purchased and took up land on the west side of the river near the present village of Huttonsville. He was a surveyor as well as a farmer, and did his surveying with a compass which he made with his own hands. One of the early enterprises which he undertook was the drilling of a salt well above Huttonsville, but his efforts were not successful. The lands in that part of the valley when he came were covered with forests of oak and walnut. The Haddans, the Riffles, the Currences, the Crouches, and others had made considerable improvement before he came. He became a Justice of the Peace in 1808; and it does not appear that he ever aspired to office, preferring to devote his time to his private affairs. His daughter Elizabeth married Andrew Crouch; Sarah, Fannie and Nancy died young; Catherine married Charles C. See; Mary married W. J. Long.

Moses Hutton, son of Jonathan, married Mary Haigler. Children, Mary Ann, Alfred, Elihu, Elizabeth, Eugene, Virginia and Mozella. He was a farmer and stockdealer, and he cleared much of the land about Huttonsville, particularly the farm belonging to his son Elihu Hutton. He was a Whig in politics; he died about 1860 of typhoid fever, at the age of 66.

John A. Hutton, son of Jonathan, married Dorothy See in 1834. Children, Margaret, Catherine E., Rachel P., Lucy, Warwick and Caroline. John A. Hutton was a member of the West Virginia Legislature, and in 1880 he re-assessed the lands of Randolph County. He was Justice of the Peace in 1841, and held other county offices.

Abraham Hutton, son of Jonathan, married Phœbe Ann Wilson in 1836, and for a second wife married Jane Eliza Harris. Children, Jane L., Mary Martha, Catherine, Phœbe Ann, Amelia, Albert E., James S., Decatur B. and John.

Alfred Hutton, son of Moses, born 1833, married Caroline, daughter of William L. Ward. Children, Ersella Lee, Virena D., Eugene E., Charles S., Alice W., Napoleon B., Amy G. and Durbin W. Of these children Eugene E. married Flora Osbern of Barbour County; Napoleon B. married Mary Crouch. Alfred Hutton was Justice of the Peace in 1877.

Colonel Elihu Hutton, son of Moses and grandson of Jonathan Hutton, was born 1837, on the John Haddan farm near the mouth of Riffle's Creek. It was near this spot that Indians murdered and burned David Haddan and his wife, together with their cabin, before the formation of Randolph County. Elihu Hutton began his education in the country schools; then attended an academy at Hillsboro, Pocahontas County, for two months, and went to Weston, where he was taught by Ed. Bland, now of Braxton County. After three months at Weston he came home sick of pneumonia. He next entered the academy at Huttonsville, taught by Jacob I. Hill, and remained there from 1857 to 1861. The academy, which stood on the hill back of Moore's hotel, was built by Moses, John and Abraham Hutton and E. B. Butcher. It was burned by Federal soldiers in 1862 and the bell was carried to Beverly, where it is said to be still in service at one of the taverns. Before the academy was burned, the majority of the students had joined the Southern Army, and Prof. Hill had been elected lieutenant. But before that time the subject of this sketch had commenced his military career. Early in July, 1861, when McClellan invaded West Virginia, the Randolph Militia was called out by Col. Melvin Currence to oppose the Union Army,* and Mr. Hutton mustered with the militia. After the fight at Rich Mountain there was great excitement at Huttonsville, where the militia was stationed, but no authentic news. Citizens came fleeing up the pike with all kinds of reports. Mr. Hutton was sent to Beverly to obtain news. He met Col. Scott, with a regiment of Confederates, in full retreat. Scott burned the Huttonsville bridge and retreated over Cheat Mountain. Hutton went with him. The militia scattered in every direction and never assembled afterwards.

Col. Hutton did not become a Confederate soldier until the spring of 1863. Prior to that time he had been on scouting duty, and had spent much time with Company F, from Randolph. In September, 1861, he came into Randolph with Gen. Lee, and was at Elkwater during the skirmishing there and in the rear of Cheat Mountain. Gen. Lee asked him to pilot a battery to the top of the mountain east of Elkwater, from which it could command the Federal position; but before the battery was placed, Lee ordered a retreat. At Camp Northwest, in Pocahontas County, Hutton joined Co. C, 20th Va. Cavalry, and was elected captain. This was in W. L. Jackson's brigade, and was the spring of 1863. For some time he and Capt. J. W. Marshall did outpost duty along the border from Kentucky to Randolph County. About that time he was sent against the Home Guards on Dry Fork, under Capt. Snyder. He was given 27 men for the service and started from Elk Mountain in Pocahontas County. Great secrecy was necessary, and he broke up his command, ordering each man to make his way alone to Hightown, where they assembled and left their horses. They proceeded through the woods, traveling at night. They first camped on Laurel Fork of North Fork. The next night they reached the head of Gandy, and the next night at 2 o'clock they surrounded Capt. Sampson Snyder in his house and toook him prisoner, together with a deserter named Meeks, who was shot, a man named Cunningham who in trying to escape was shot in the elbow and died of the wound, and Daniel Anvil. Amos Bennett was in the house at the time, but escaped. With the prisoners, and with seven horses and eighty cattle picked up on Dry Fork, they retreated. Capt. Snyder's men collected, followed them and had a skirmish in Highland County, but failed to rescue the prisoners or retake the stock. However, Capt. Snyder made his escape.*

Col. Hutton's first duty in the regular service was in the Imboden raid of 1863. At Middle Fork he was detached and sent back to Beverly to hold that point. He remained there until the Federals came in sight, a week or more after Imboden had passed. He then fell back to Pocahontas County. The weak resistance offered the advance of the Confederates by the Union forces under General Roberts caused that general to be superseded by General Averell, who equipped and trained 3000 cavalry to guard the passes through the mountains in West Virginia north of the Kanawha. Colonel Hutton entertains a high opinion of the generalship of Averell and considers that he was the ablest and most dangerous opponent the Confederates had to contend with in West Virginia. He moved very rapidly.

In July, 1863, Colonel Hutton was with General W. L. Jackson in his attack upon Beverly. Hutton was sent down on the west side of the river, but fell back and retreated with the Confederates when Federal cavalry under Averell put in an appearance on the pike between Beverly and Leading Creek. Averell pursued and the last firing occurred at Crickard. Colonel Hutton was in the battle at Droop Mountain, Pocahontas County, where General Echols was defeated by Averell, and he was cut off when the Confederate Army retreated, and with Captain Jacob S. Wamsley, Sergeant, C. G. Rader and Sidney Ruckman, and the men of their commands camped on the edge of the battlefield that night, very near the

* See sketch of Capt. Snyder for further particulars of this affair.

Union Army, and the next day made their way to the Levels, crossed the Greenbrier River at Ruckman's and joined General Echols at Lewisburg.

Next came the campaign of General Hunter against Lynchburg. The command that Hutton was in met the Federals under General Crook at White Sulphur Springs, and there was a running fight for ten miles, the Confederates falling back. Ten of Major J. F. Harding's men were captured on that occasion, and the Major would have shared the same fate but for an unerring shot from his revolver which stopped the foremost pursuer. In a skirmish the same day at Covington Colonel Hutton received a painful wound in the shoulder from a spent ball, but it did not disable him. The next day, with five men, he was sent to Callihan's, near the top of the Alleghanies, to learn the movements of the Federals. He learned that Averell was close upon them, and four Union scouts in gray clothes came in sight a few minutes later, but a shot which killed one of them put the others to flight.

During the rest of the campaign Col. Hutton was in the principal part of the fighting against Gen. Crook, falling back before him from Bratton's to Panther Gap, and again through Rockfish Gap to Lynchburg. When Hunter retreated from Lynchburg, his troops were attacked wherever possible. On the march to Lynchburg the Confederates fought as they fell back, but on the return the order was reversed, and the Federals were obliged to fight their way out until they reached Monroe Co. The next large military movement with which the subject of this sketch was connected was Gen. Early's expedition into Maryland, advancing to the suburbs of Washington, and falling back across the Potomac. Col. Hutton was in all of the hard fighting in the Valley of Virginia between Early and Sheridan, and was wounded near White Post. Eugene Hutton, his brother, who was a lieutenant, was killed at Bunker Hill, Sept. 3, 1864. This left Major Harding the only officer remaining. The war was drawing to a close. The last fight in which Col. Hutton took part was between Madison Court-House and Gordonsville; from there he went to Highland County to spend the winter. In the spring of 1865 he was ordered to join Lee. Below Lynchburg he heard of the surrender. He attempted to reach Johnston in North Carolina, but got no farther than Pittsylvania Court-House. He crossed the James at Buchanan, disbanded his men and reassembled them a few days later at Lexington. There he finally disbanded them and directed them to surrender wherever they saw fit. He surrendered at Lewisburg, Greenbrier Co., May 10, 1865.

The war having ended, Col. Hutton entered actively into business. In 1877 and again in 1881 he was elected to the Legislature, and received the Democratic nomination for the State Senate in 1885. His real estate transactions have been on a large scale, he having bought and sold more land than any other man in the State, his purchase for one company amounting to 132,000 acres. He aided in founding a plant in Braxton Co. at a cost of a quarter of a million dollars; bought 16,000 acres for the Holly River Lumber Co., and 10,000 on Elk for a Pennsylvania company. He contested to a successful issue a lawsuit involving the largest amount ever litigated in Randolph County.

In 1872 Col. Hutton was married to Miss Sophronia E., daughter of John Harvey Woodford of Barbour Co.; children, Laone, who married Captain W. H. Cobb of Georgia, cousin of Gen. Thomas Cobb; Harvey Woodford, Ernest, Forrest and Beryl.

WARWICK HUTTON, born 1850, son of John A. and Dorothy (See) Hutton; Welsh ancestry. In 1888, in Barbour County, he married Rissa, daughter of J. H. and I. (Thompson) Woodford. Children, Dorothy S., Isis I. Farmer and stockdealer. In 1888 he was elected Sheriff of Randolph; after his term expired he resumed farming. He lives on the Hutton homestead and owns an interest in 1000 acres. His sister Margaret married Noah Crouch, who is dead, and his sister Caroline married Philip Hamilton, who lives at Grafton, and is in the employ of the B. & O. Railroad.

ALBERT E. HUTTON, born 1850, son of Abraham; married, 1886, Elizabeth, daughter of John M. Crouch. Children, Jossie B., Felix C., Myrtle, Ora, Mary. Farmer.

THE HADDAN FAMILY. Among the first settlers arriving in Tygart's Valley after the massacre of the Files family in 1753 or 1754, were three brothers, David, William and John Haddan. With them came their parents. There is some evidence that they came here from New Jersey, then called "the Jerseys." The families located in the vicinity of what is now Huttonsville, selecting the choicest and most fertile lands in Tygart's Valley. The surveys describe the river as the "Monongahela." Tradition has it that the elder Haddan and his family were murdered by Indians,* their house and its contents pillaged and burned, and that this was witnessed by their son William, who was concealed nearby in a sink-hole covered with driftwood, but powerless to render any aid. In consequence of the barbarity which he witnessed upon that occasion he became the unrelenting foe of the Indians, and when they ceased coming to this section he followed in their footsteps further west, as they retired, until all trace of him or of his descendants has been lost.† It is believed that the elder Haddan's name

* It is remarkable that this circumstance, which appears well authenticated, and seems to have been a matter of common knowledge among the early inhabitants, should have escaped Withers when he was collecting material for the "Border Warfare." There were, however, several Indian murders in Randolph County which Withers failed to record.

† Such characters were not uncommon on the frontiers—men whose natures had become so changed by the revolting cruelty of the Indians that they seemed powerless to resist the temptation to kill an Indian whenever they could—in peace or war. Noted examples were Lewis Wetzel and Jesse Hughes, the former of Ohio County, the latter of Harrison. William Haddan appears to have been like them. It is stated by way of from any other human habitation. His wife was a daughter of Jesse Hughes, the noted Indian fighter. He was one of the justices of the peace appointed by the Governor in the organization of the County in 1787. Being the oldest justice of peace in point of service, he was promoted to sheriff in 1793. He moved to Kentucky in 1797. Mr. Gandy located his cabin about fifty yards from the junction of Gandy Creek with Dry Fork between the two streams.

THE GOFF FAMILY.

The Goff Family. The Goff family, one of the most prominent and influential in the State, was first represented in Virginia by Job Goff, who settled in Harrison County in 1805. The Goff family is of German descent and settled in Rhode Island is an early colonial period.

David Goff, son of Job Goff, located in Randolph prior to 1829, when he was united in marriage to Christina, daughter of Peter Buckey. Their children were Claude, Cecilla and Vernon. David Goff became prosecuting attorney in 1835, superintendent of schools in 1853. He represented the County in the Virginia Assembly and also in the Senate after the formation of the new state. He was Colonel of the Virginia militia in 1844. General Nathan Goff, ex-Secretary of the Navy, and now United States Senator, is a nephew of David Goff and studied law in his uncle's office at Beverly.

Claude Goff, son of David and Christina (Buckey) Goff, was for many years a practitioner at the Beverly bar and was a highly esteemed citizen. He married Anna, daughter of Franklin and Lucinda Leonard. Their children were Chas. P., David and Ralph Waldo.

Ralph Waldo Goff, a very promising young man who was preparing himself for the legal profession, died in the twenty-first year of his age at Beverly.

THE HUTTON FAMILY.

The Hutton Family. Abraham Hutton was, perhaps, the first of the name to come to America. He was of Welch descent, and located in what is now Hardy County. He married a Miss Evans, of Philadelphia. The children of this marriage were Isaac, Moses, Peter and Johnathan. Moses Hutton entered 200 acres of land on Stony River in Hampshire County in 1789. Abraham Hutton was living in Hardy County in 1794.

Johnathan Hutton was born June 3, 1769, and married Mary, daughter of Frederick and Barbara Troutwine, in Hardy County in May, 1790. He moved to Randolph and settled on the west side of the river, near the present village of Huttonsville in 1795. The children of Johnathan and Barbara (Troutwine) Hutton were Moses, Abraham, John A., Elizabeth, Sarah, Nancy, Catherine, Fannie and Mary. Elizabeth married Andrew Crouch, Catherine married Chas. C. See, Mary married W. J. Long.

Moses Hutton, son of Johnathan and Barbara (Troutwine) Hutton, married Mary Haigler. Their children were Mary, Alfred, Elihu, Eugene, Virginia and Mozella. He died in the sixty-sixth year of his age.

John A. Hutton, son of Johnathan and Barbara (Troutwine) Hutton, married Dorothy See in 1834. Their children were Margaret, Catherine, Rachel, Lucy, Caroline and Warwick.

Abraham Hutton, son of Johnathan and Barbara (Troutwine) Hutton, married Phoeba Ann Wilson in 1836. Children, Mary Catherine, Phoeba, Amelia, Albert E., James S. Decatur B. and John.

Lieutenant Eugene Hutton, son of Moses Hutton, gave his life to the lost cause at the battle of Bunkerhill, September 3, 1864. He was a brave and intrepid soldier and was highly esteemed for many excellencies in civil life.

Elihu, son of Moses and Mary (Haigler) Hutton, was born December 31, 1837, died April 19, 1916. He was reared on his father's farm in the vicinity of Huttonsville and was educated under private tutors and at the Huttonsville Acadtmy, then the principal seat of learning in this section of the State. At the age of 24, in 1861, he organized Company C of the 20th Regiment Virginia Cavalry. He was elected Captain of his Regiment and by meritorious service arose to Colonel of the Regiment at the close of the war. He participated in the principal engagements of the war. He was wounded several times; severely at Smithfield, Virginia. His brother, Eugene, a young man of much promise was killed at Bunker Hill in 1864. At the close of the war he resumed the pursuits of husbandry on the home farm.

COLONEL ELIHU HUTTON.

In 1872 he married Miss Sophrina, daughter of Harvey Woodford, of Barbour County. To this union were born two daughters, Mrs. Laone, wife of Capt. W. H. Cobb, of Elkins, and Mrs. Beryl, wife of Floyd Strader, of Elkins; and three sons, Woodford, Forest and Ernest.

Col. Hutton represented his county two terms in the State Legislature and his genial and generous nature, coupled with qualities of mind that incited admiration, made him very popular, alike in private and public life.

Col. Hutton represented his county two terms in the State Legislature and his genial and generous nature, coupled with qualities of mind that incited admiration, made him very popular, alike in private and public life.

Col. Hutton was prominently identified with the Confederate service during the Civil War. He was with Lee at Elkwater. He accompanied Gen. W. L. Jackson in his raid in the Valley in 1863, and was with Gen. Imboden in his raid in West Virginia the same year. Col. Hutton was one of Gen. Early's subordinates upon whom he much depended in his campaign in the Valley against Sheridan.

John A. Hutton was justice of the peace in 1841. He represented Randolph and Tucker in the Legislature subsequent to the Civil War. He was assessor of lands in 1880. Warwick, son of Johnathan, also represented Randolph and Tucker in the State Legislature and was sheriff of Randolph in 1888.

John A. Hutton in association with Mathew Whitman, Dr. Squire Bosworth, Andrew Crawford and others, were among the leaders in the organization of the Presbyterian church in Randolph and made it a power in moulding a moral and religious sentiment in the earlier years of the County. The Hutton family also deserve credit for fostering education in Randolph prior to the Civil War. It was largely through their efforts that the academy was established in antebellum days. In this school, taught by Capt. Jacob I. Hill, many men of Randolph received an education which enabled them to take a leading part in the professions of teaching, law, medicine, the pulpit, as well as in the civic affairs of the County and State.

H. Woodford, son of Col Elihu and Sophina (Woodford) Hutton, was born February 26, 1876, married Lena, daughter of Seymour McCarty. Mr. Hutton was educated at Fairmont Normal and at State University. He is engaged in farming and stockraising near Huttonsville.

Bedford Forrest, son of Elihu and Sophina (Woodford) Hutton, was born in 1885, married Ethelyn Virginia, daughter of A. J. and E. V. (Robinson) Bonnafield. Children, Elihu Bonnafield, Frances Haigler and Ethelyn Virginia. Mr. Hutton was educated at Potomac Academy, Stetson University, Florida, Pantops Academy, Washington, and Washington and Lee University, where he matriculated in the department of law. Mr. Hutton is engaged in farming and stock-raising.

THE HARDING FAMILY.

Joseph French Harding, born November 9, 1838, in Anne Arundle County, Maryland, son of Joseph and Alice (Elliott) Harding. He married in 1869, Luceba, daughter of Archibald and Caroline (Taylor) Wilmoth. Children, Clare W., French Leslie, Luceba M., Roella, Jo L. and Vie Owen. Mrs. Harding died April 8, 1910. Jo Lile died January 26, 1906. The name had a military origin and the Hardings have always had a bent toward the profession of arms, many of the name distinguishing themselves in military life. Maj. Harding entered the Confederate service at the beginning of the war, when 23 years of age. He remained until the close of the war firing the last shot of that conflict, perhaps, at Knapps Creek, in an engagement with Capt. Badger. He was in many hard fought battles and had many seeming miraculous escapes. Although several times wounded, Maj. Harding is today physically superior to the average man twenty years his junior. He rose to the rank of Major and was named for promotion to Colonel when the war closed. Maj. Harding has no characteristics of the man who yields and after Lee's surrender made an effort to reach the country beyond the Mississippi, where he believed the Confederates were still holding out, but on learning that all had surrendered, he wrote his own parole May 23, 1865.

Subsequent to the Civil War, Maj. Harding twice represented Randolph and Tucker counties in the State Legislature and was a member of the Constitutional Convention of 1872. He was Sheriff of Randolph from 1877 to 1881. Since 1885, with his son Clare W. Harding, as junior member of the firm, he has been an attorney at law.

Clare W. Harding, son of Major and Luceba (Wilmoth) Harding, was born in 1872, married Ada, daughter of S. N. and Katherine (Brown) Bosworth. Children, Mildred,Evelyn, Neil, Lyle and Josephine. Mr. Harding has served two terms as prosecuting attorney of Randolph County and was appointed commissioner in chancery by Judge Kittle.

Hello VHill!

I am working on the Huttons of Smyth County and am very excited to see your message!. the Paffords have married with the Huttons for a few generations. Now, there were two Leonard Huttons in Washington Co in 1813. I have good reason to believe that they were cousins - one is the son of James Hutton and one is the son of John Hutton, brothers from Pa. I believe they were both born in the Chester area of Pa about the same time. My Leonard Hutton was born in 1769 and married twice in Washington Co - once to Martha McCall on 31 October 1793 (children: James Hutton (assumed, b 1804 married Elizabeth Phillips and m2 Martha Carson McCall)
Dickson Hutton (1811, m Mary),
Edward Hutton (1812 - my direct ancestor, married Elizabeth Wolfe). there probably are others, but I don't have good authentic verification on them. I know there were some girls, but I don't know their names. Leonard married again to Nancy Baugh on 14 Nov 1818 (Children: Elizabeth (1929-never married) and Mahlon (1830-married Elizabeth Betsey Carmony). I also beleive their was another Leonard Hutton (1825 - married Elizabeth) which would be by Nancy Baugh. I am still working on verifying this.

Let me know if you think this is a match. The other Leonard Hutton married Mary Berry on 8 Sept 1791 and I believe evidently moved on west. I have some deeds and land sales from him also.

was chief of Feara Monach (or "Fermanagh"). 2. O'Muldoon, chief of Muintir Maolduin and Feara Luirg, now known as the barony of "Lurg." 3. Muintir Taithligh, Tilly or Tully, chiefs of Hy-Laoghaire, of Lough Lir, a district which lay in the barony of Lurg, near Lough Erne, towards Tyrone. 4. MacDuilgen or MacDwilgan, not mentioned in O'Dugan, is A.D. 924, in the Annals of the Four Masters, given as Fergus MacDuilgen, lord of Lurg. 5. O'Flanagan, chief of Tuath Ratha (a name retained by the mountain "Tura") or the District of the Fortress, a territory which extended from Belmore to Belleek, and from Lough Melvin to Lough Erne, comprising the present barony of Magheraboy. 6. Gilfinan, chief of Muintir Peodachain of the Port, on the borders of Fermanagh and Donegal; and still traceable in the name of "Pettigo." (By metathesis we might derive "Pakenham" from this Irish clan: Peodachain, Pachain, Pachena, Pakenha—Pakenham). 7. Mac Giolla Michil or Gilmichael (anglicised "Michil" and "Michael") was chief of Clan Congail. In the Annals of the Four Masters, at A.D. 1238, it is stated that Clan Congail and O'Ceanfada [O'Kennedy] lay in Tir Managh or Fermanagh: this Clan or Tir O'Ceanfhada is probably the present barony of "Tirkennedy." 8. O'Mulrooney and O'Heany, who were chiefs of Muintir Maolruanaidh (as the descendants of Maolruanaidh, No. 104, page 672, were called), and of Maoith Leirg Monach. 9. MacDonnell, chief of Clan Celleagh, now the barony of "Clankelly."

The following clans, not given in O'Dugan, are collected in Connellan's Four Masters from other sources:—10. MacManus, a numerous clan (chiefly in Tirkennedy), who had the control of the shipping on Lough Erne, and held the office of hereditary chief managers of the fisheries under Maguire. 11. MacCassidy, who were hereditary physicians to the Maguires. Roderick MacCassidy, archdeacon of Clogher, who partly compiled the "Annals of Ulster," was a distinguished member of this important family. 12. O'Criochain (who were descended from Colla-da-Chrioch), anglicised O'Creighan, O'Greighan, Cregan, Crehan, Creighton, Creehan, Grehan, and Graham,* were a numerous clan in Fermanagh. 13. MacGrath, who held possession at Termon M'Grath, where they had a castle in the parish of Templecarne.

"Maguire's Country" was, in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, A.D. 1569, formed into the county Fermanagh, by the lord deputy Sir Henry Sidney.

(b) The New Settlers in Fermanagh.

On the "Plantation of Ulster," in the reign of King James the First of England, the following English and Scotch families obtained extensive grants of the confiscated lands in Fermanagh, as given in Pinnar's Survey, A.D. 1619, quoted in Harris's Hibernia:—Sir James Belford, Mr. Adwick, Sir Stephen Butler, ancestor of the earls of Lanesborough; John Sedborrow, Thomas Flowerdew, Edward Hatton, Sir Hugh Wirrall, Sir John Davies, who was Attorney-General to King James the First, and a celebrated writer; Sir Gerrard Lowther, John Archdall, Edward Sibthorp, Henry Flower, Thomas Blennerhasset, Sir Edward Blennerhasset, Francis Blennerhasset; Sir William Cole, ancestor of the earls of Enniskillen; Sir Henry Folliot (now Ffolliot), Captain Paul Gore, Captain Roger Atkinson, Malcolm Hamilton, George Humes, Sir of Geannan," so called from Geannan, one of the Firbolg kings. This lake was anciently called Lough Saimer; and, according to Walsh, in quoting Cambrensis Eversus, derived the name "Erne" from Erna, the favourite waiting-maid of Maud or Meav (the famous queen of Connaught) who was drowned there. In the tenth, eleventh, and twelfth centuries, the head chief of this territory was O'Duibhdara or O'Dwyer, whom O'Dugan mentions as chief of the race of Daimhin (No. 92 on the "O'Hart" pedigree) and several of the names are mentioned in the Annals of the Four Masters, at A.D. 1086, and in Mac Firbis's genealogical work, page 304; amongst others, Giolla Chriosd O Duibhdara, prince of Fermanagh, who A.D. 1076, was killed at Daimhinis or Devenish Island, in Lough Erne.

* Graham or Grahame: The author of that excellent American work, "Irish Family Names," lately published, says:—"The Montrose family, the most eminent of the modern representatives of this grand old Celtic stock, trace their pedigree back to the first half of the fifth century of our era, and to Græme, the distinguished general, who administered the affairs of Scotland in the interest and during the minority of Eugene II., grandson of Fergus II. (A.D. 411-429), of the Dalriadic line of Kings of what we now know as Scotland. Many of the Grahams of Ulster trace their descent from this illustrious stock, originally of the oldest of the 'old Irish' element. The Graham tartan suggestively enough gives prominence, in its make-up, to the 'Emerald green.'" forced to abandon it because of ill health. He came to Rocheport, in this county, in the spring and here engaged in the bakery business on Water street, which he operated successfully till December, 1845, when he sold out and returned to St. Charles, his wife being dissatisfied with Rocheport. There he purchased the sawmill he had formerly rented, and ran it until May, '48. He then sold out and once more returned to Boone county, and has been a citizen here ever since. Again starting his bakery, he continued thus until 1858, when he purchased a farm near Rocheport, and began operating it with slaves, of which he owned a considerable number. He still owns the farm. After one year he returned to town, and began the general merchandise business with William West, firm style of West & Grossman. At this time he had amassed considerable property. But now came the period of reverses, among which was the payment of one security debt to the amount of $4,000. About the same time the war broke out, paralyzing business, and Mr. G. did but little till 1863, when he and Geo. W. Gregory opened up the bakery and grocery business, which they continued successfully till 1871. During this time they built two large store houses, and a warehouse. Mr. Grossman still carries on this business, Gregory having retired from the firm. In 1875, Mr. G. and Mr. Champion built the "Monitor Mills" in Rocheport, which they still own. He has four living children: Houston; Josephine, wife of Dr. Edward Evans, of Boonville; Eliza, and Annie, wife of Dr. Chinn, of Rocheport. Mr. Grossman has done much to build up and keep up the trade of Rocheport, and to improve the town. He has been a member of the town board for twenty years, about half that time serving as town mayor. He was elected president of the savings bank in 1878, and is still in connection therewith. He belongs to the Rocheport lodge of A. F. & A. M., and is one of the most esteemed citizens of the place.

GEN. STEWART B. HATTON.

Gen. Stewart B. Hatton, one of the oldest pioneers of Boone county and a man of distinguished natural ability, popularity and influence, is the tenth son and fourteenth child of Reuben and Joan (Beleau) Hatton. His father was born in 1762, of English parents, being one of the third generation after the removal from England. He was born and raised to the age of nineteen years in Amelia county, Virginia, receiving an excellent common school education. At the breaking out of the revolutionary war, he entered the American army, being at the time but nineteen years of age. He was at the battles of Guilford Court House and Eutaw Springs, also in the disastrous engagement with Lord Rawdon. The close of the war found him in South Carolina. Being charmed with the country and the climate, he resolved to remain in the south. Having learned the hatter's trade with his father before the war, he applied for a situation, and was employed by a Frenchman named Beleau, a descendant of a Huguenot family, of South Carolina, whose wife was of the same faith and nativity. This proved an important epoch in the life of Reuben Hatton. He made love to his employer's daughter and was accepted. In the course of time they were married, and the well-matched couple lived happily together as man and wife for over half a century. Their large family, with but two exceptions, lived to old age and left large families of their own. The descendants of Reuben and Joan Hatton now number over a thousand souls, and are scattered over almost the entire South and West. After his marriage, Reuben Hatton remained for several years in South Carolina. His three oldest children were born in that State. Having heard of Daniel Boone's exploits in Kentucky, he joined one of the bands of emigrants which that daring hunter piloted through the wilderness to one of his settlements on the Kentucky river. They were several months on the road. Reuben Hatton settled on a fine body of land near what was afterwards known as Foxtown, in Madison county. He built him a good house and a hatter's shop. Several of his sons learned the trade, and they did a good business. Real estate having rapidly increased in value, Reuben Hatton found that he could not settle all of his large family on homes of their own in Madison county, and he resolved to emigrate to Missouri. Two of his sons, Mitchell and William, having volunteered in the war of 1812, and having been sent west to protect the frontier, wrote back to their parents to sell out and remove to Missouri, describing it as the finest country they had ever seen. Reuben Hatton was pleased with the idea, and, having disposed of his home in Kentucky, removed to St. Louis county, Missouri, in 1814, when the subject of this sketch was but three years old, he having been born in Madison county, Kentucky, February 5th, 1811. They remained in St. Louis county nearly three years, where Mitchell Hatton, the fourth son, was married. His wife was Anna Whitesides, a niece of Gen. Whitesides, under whom he had served during a portion of the war of 1812, and after whom Whitesides county, Illinois, was afterwards named. Mitchell Hatton died on his farm in Boone county, now occupied by his son, Fleming B. Hatton, March, 1863, aged sixty-seven. He was a justice of the peace for twenty years, and never had but three cases reversed by the circuit court. Seven children were born to him, only three of whom are now living: Mrs. Hester Ann Hatton, Fleming B. and John W. Hatton. Reuben Hatton came to Boone county in 1817, and settled on a farm near Midway. It is claimed for him that he built the first house in the county that was covered with shingles. However doubtful this may be, there cannot be the least shadow of doubt that he established the first nursery of fruit trees, having brought his stock with him from Kentucky to St. Louis, and from St. Louis to Boone county. Gen. Hatton commenced life for himself as a hatter, having a shop near Midway, in Boone county. He afterwards bought the Dixon water-mill on the Callaham, and removed to the place vacated by Mr. Dixon. He was married, April 5th, 1834, to Alitha Barnes, daughter of Amos Barnes, mentioned elsewhere in this volume. He was married by "old uncle Jimmie Barnes," a pioneer preacher and an uncle of Mrs. Hatton. Three children were born of this marriage, one son and two daughters. The youngest, Mrs. Wilcox, is dead. The eldest daughter, Mrs. Jackson Yeager, is living on a cotton plantation in Arkansas. The oldest child, Rev. William A. Hatton, is pastor of the Baptist church at Memphis, Missouri. The eldest daughter has been twice married. Her first husband was George W. Milhollen, who was killed in Linn county, Missouri, during the late war. From early manhood to middle age, Gen. Hatton was continually in office, mostly in the militia. He has held every military office from first sergeant to brigadier-general. In 1850 he was elected to the legislature. He served in the Black Hawk and Mormon wars, and took an active part in the late civil war, being commissioned to raise, organize and send forward troops to Price's army. He assisted in organizing the forces that were taken south by Gens. Green and Harris. He was with Gen. Harris at the Fulton fight, and planned the ambuscade by which Harris was enabled to get out of a very close place, after inflicting severe loss on the enemy. Their orders were not to fire a gun if it could be avoided, but it became necessary to strike terror into the hearts of his pursuers. It was through his advice that Jeff. Jones was enabled to dictate his own terms to Gen. Henderson, who had a much larger force. During the troubles in Kansas in 1856, he raised a company of men and went to the assistance of the pro-slavery party, but the difficulty was settled without serious bloodshed. During the latter part of the late war, he was taken prisoner. He was soon released, however, but was again arrested and kept a close prisoner until near the close of the war. He was severely blamed by some of his own party for not joining the regular army, but in remaining north of the river, he was but obeying positive orders from Gen. Price, who sent couriers through to him every few weeks. Had he not been ordered to remain, he would certainly have gone to the front and remained there. He always advised against fighting on this side of the river, so long as it could be avoided, and in so doing he was but obeying the written instructions received from Gen. Price, and reiterated from time to time. The labors of Gen. Hatton in behalf of the South are not historical, but are none the less sincere and effective on that acconnt. He is a Mason and a member of the Methodist Church.

WILLIAM DOUGLASS HENDERSON.

William Douglass Hénderson, one of the most substantial farmers in the vicinity of Midway, was born at a place called Big Muddy, in Illinois, October 29th, 1817, while his parents were en route from Kentucky to Missouri. In the month of November following his parents reached Florissant, St. Louis county, Missouri, where they remained during the winter. In the spring of 1818 his father came to Boone county, and purchased the land now known as the Henderson homestead, containing 306 acres, situated near Midway. Mr. Henderson was raised on this farm. The opportunities for obtaining an education at this time and place were poor indeed. The subject of this sketch had no other instruction than such as could be obtained by attending subscription schools for a few months of the year, usually in mid-winter. In 1836, his father's health failing, he took control of the farm and managed it until his death, which occurred in 1843. The farm having been willed to Mrs. Henderson, he remained with her until her death, in 1871. Previous to his mother's death, Mr. Henderson had purchased the interest of the other heirs, and so became sole proprietor of the old homestead. During the late civil war, Mr. Henderson was avowedly Southern in sentiment, and suffered financially for his principles, notwithstanding he took no part in the struggle. Mr. Henderson has been twice married. His first wife was Miss Eleanor, daughter of Warren Leonard, of Boone county, Missouri, to whom he was married March 29th, 1845. By this marriage he has five living children. His oldest daughter, Sarah C., is

PROCEEDINGS AND ADDRESSES

ALLENTOWN, NOVEMBER 2, 1906

VOL. XVII

PUBLISHED BY THE SOCIETY
1908

A daring plan was laid, by the British prisoners in the barracks for a general uprising on May 17, 1781, which fortunately was discovered and the plot spoiled.

At the beginning of the summer of that year the people of the borough were greatly alarmed by the appearance and rapid spread of a malignant fever among the prisoners, and this alarm was increased by the arrival of a body of "Convention prisoners" from the south, but, happily, the disease does not seem to have resulted as fatally as was anticipated.

In October, 1781, some of the "Convention prisoners" were removed to Easton and Philadelphia. For a year longer the prisoners remained at Lancaster, without the occurrence of any matters of moment. At last the British disappeared, as did also most of the Hessians, but many of these latter never returned to Europe or the British army, but settled in Lancaster or adjoining counties, where their descendants are still found.

To guard this number of prisoners, and to defeat their various attempts at escape, was no light matter. It was just as irksome a duty at Reading and Lebanon, but, as the numbers involved were greater at Lancaster, we will merely record the services of this character which were there performed, to give the reader some idea of what the Pennsylvania-Germans were called upon to do in this direction, a duty never pleasant and always without glory or reward.

In the beginning regular details of guards were appointed, from the militia, to serve on specific days. The first posting of guards seems to have taken place on October 25, 1775, and was as follows: Officer of the day, Capt. Paul Zantzinger; sergeant of the guard, Arnold Bombarger; corporal of the guard, Andrew Cunningham; drummer, ——— Keisey; fifer, ——— Brooks; number of privates, sixteen. The detail averaged from twelve guards to about nineteen, up to March 6, 1776.

From December 30, 1775, to March, 1776, we have given the names of each officer of the day, and sergeant of the guard, which list is believed to be of sufficient interest to reproduce:

my Irish ancestor

Thomas Hutton, of Carlow, County Carlow, under date of 6 Mo. 20, 1726, writes to his sons in New Garden, that "Cousin Wm. Lightfoot tould me y^t you dwelt in love."[1]

The number of favorable and urgent letters written by the first settlers back to Ireland were strong incentives for the Irish Friends to join their relatives and old neighbors in Pennsylvania. By the merest chance some of these letters have been preserved; but from hints and references to other letters in those extant we know that there must have been many others. In the meeting records, also, there are frequent references to letters sent in relation to the business of the meeting, and often these afforded opportunities for the exchange of personal messages. All these letters were read with the greatest interest in Ireland, and passed from house to house in a neighborhood, a custom also in Pennsylvania when letters came from the old home.

These letters afford us interesting glimpses of the migratory movement and of the social side of colonial life. A few of the first letters were printed in the descriptive pamphlets, but the first manuscript letter that has come under notice is one to William Porter in Ireland, from George Harlan,[2] a Friend, who had come over from

Thomas Hutton's Letters

A series of four letters[1] written by Thomas Hutton, of Carlow, Ireland, to his sons in Pennsylvania, are interesting and full of news. The Huttons, yeomen by occupation, lived at first in New Garden, Chester County, but later some of them removed to the Friends' settlement in Berks County. Extracts from each of these letters are here inserted:

Delaware County

As the table shows, eighty-two adult Irish Friends arrived at the three monthly meetings in what is now Delaware County, sixty-three being received at Chester Monthly Meeting, sixteen at Concord Monthly Meeting, and but few at the Welsh Monthly Meeting at Radnor, or Haverford, with its subordinate or particular meetings of Haverford, Radnor and Merion (Montgomery County).

Chester Monthly Meeting

First Meeting in Pennsylvania at Upland, 1675

Robert Wade, an English Friend, the first member of the Society to locate on the west side of the Delaware, settled among the Swedes and Dutch on the west bank of Chester Creek at Upland, later called Chester, in 1675, and in that year William Edmundson,[1] then on a religious visit to the American colonies, held a meeting at his house.[2] This was the first Friends' meeting held in the Province of Pennsylvania.[2] A meeting was probably held regularly after 1677, by which time to make up one preparative meeting, to be held at each place turn about." 2 Mo. 7, 1746.—"Newberry preparative meeting recommends John Day and William Garretson for overseers in that meeting which is approved."

The original Newberry Meeting land, which is in the present village of Newberrytown, consisted of a hexagonal tract[1] of 42 acres and 61 perches, surveyed April 10, 1767, to John Garretson and Joseph Hutton, in trust for the Society of Friends. Our information about the early meeting-houses is very meagre, but the first building, which is said to have been of logs,[2] was probably erected on this tract. The old burial ground,[3] which at the time of the writer's visit to the place in 1897 was an almost impenetrable wilderness of briers and sumac, is all of the plot that is now owned by the Society. The remainder of the land and the meeting-house,[4] which according to the inscribed stone in the west gable was erected in 1792,[5] was sold about 1811, by authority of a special act of the State Legislature,[1] and the meeting was moved to another location about two miles from the town. Here a stone meeting-house was built on a five-acre lot sold to Jesse Wickersham and George Garretson, in trust for the Society, by Samuel Garretson and Alice his wife, by deed of 10 Mo. 4, 1811.[2] The meeting is now extinct, and at the time of my visit in 1897 the meeting-house was in a sad state of decay, but recently it has been recovered with a slate roof and thoroughly repaired.[3] In 1897, the graveyard presented a well-kept appearance and was enclosed by an iron fence.

The Newberry community received a considerable body of the Irish Friends, but not so large as did Warrington and Menallen. Some of those who located at Newberry were: Timothy Kirk and his sons Jacob, Timothy, Caleb, Ezekiel, and Jonathan Kirk; Robert Whinery, originally from Grange, probably near Charlemont; Robert Miller and his son Samuel; George Boyd; Joshua Low; Joseph and John Hutton; William Wilson; and several members of the Hobson family.

the nineteenth century, and now meetings are held on only one First-day each year.

A large number of Irish Friends made their way to the Warrington settlement. Among them were Thomas Wilson, from Grange, near Charlemont, about 1748, a little later removing to Fairfax Meeting, Virginia; Thomas Blackburn, from Ballyhagen, County Armagh, about 1749; the brothers George, John, and William McMillan, from Nantmeal, Chester County, about 1750; John Marsh and sons John, Joshua, Jonathan, and William, also from Nantmeal, about same date; Peter Marsh, brother of John, from same place about same date; William Nevitt, a minister in the Society, from Moate, County West Meath, about 1751; William Hutton, from New Garden, Chester County, about 1751; Samuel Hutton, from Exeter, Berks County, about 1753; Nicholas Steer, from Sadsbury, about 1759; John Boyd and son William, from Sadsbury, the former about 1765 and the latter about 1754; James Love, from Sadsbury, about 1761; Francis and Thomas Wilkinson, with their mother, Elizabeth, widow of Joseph Wilkinson, from Chester County, about 1760; Francis Hobson,[1] from Ballyhagen, County Armagh, about 1764; Aaron Coates, from Bradford, Chester County, about 1767; William Pillar, from Grange near Charlemont, about 1767,

The Warming-pan

The warming-pan, which in this inventory was valued at 12s., was used to make the bed comfortable on a cold night; the pan was filled with hot coals, and, held by its long wooden handle, was thrust into the bed and rapidly moved back and forth to keep from scorching the linen sheets.

Redemptioners

In the item "Sarvant Man and Maide," mentioned in the will as John Kitchien and Margaret Mathews), we have further evidence of the system of redemptioners or indented servants that played such an important part in the economic history of the colony.[1] Evidently by this time

[1] Some wills and other inventories of Irish Quakers mentioning indented servants were those of Joseph Coebourn, of Aston Township, now Delaware County, 1723, "A Woman Sarv^t 3 years £8" and "A nagro man called Tobitt £30," the latter no doubt held as a slave; Thomas Jackson, of Marlborough, Chester County, 1727, "my two Sarvants Samuel Hughes and Elizabeth Driskle [£15]," Joseph Kelly [£10], and William Kean, 20£"; Ann Marshill, of New Garden, "late from Ireland," 1729, "a Sarvant Man wch She Sould to ffra: Hobson," £8, and "ye halfe of ye time of a sarvant girl," £4; James Miller, of New Garden, 1732, "a Sarvan man," 12£; Joseph Hutton, of New Garden, 1735, "2 Servant Women," £15; Neal Moony, of London Grove, 1751, "a Boy," £10; William Pim, of East Caln, Chester, County, 1751, "a Servant Lads time, £9."

At the next Monthly Meeting the committee reported on the marriage as follows:

Att our Monthly Meeting of New garden held att Notingham the 10th of ye 11th mo: 1718–19

The friends yt were Appointed To See ye orderly Accomplishment of Thomas Jackson & Mary Willeys Marriage, Make report That it was Accomplished orderly.

It often happened that marriages were not celebrated with that high degree of good order which the committee thought necessary at such functions. There seems to have been a constant tendency, especially after the fourth decade of the century, to bring some of the ways of the "world's people" into the marriage ceremony. In 1761, at Warrington Monthly, a marriage was reported orderly, except for the couple[1] "having a man & maid to wait on them, which practice this meeting doth not approve." In 1773, at the said Monthly Meeting, a groom[2] was complained of for having "assistance in taking of his Gloves." In 1775, the nuptials of Richard Atherton and Phebe Hobson seem to have passed off to the satisfaction of the men Friends of the meeting, but the women members were scandalized at the presence of "assistants to pull off the glove and hat." In 1785, Friends had a concern as to the "practice of keeping on the Hat at the time of Solemnizing Marriage."[3]

Many young Friends, impatient of the slow and troublesome process of passing meeting, would of all such protests many young members were found playing cards and engaging in such "vain and vicecious Proseedings as Frollicking Fiddling and Dancing."

At New Garden Monthly Meeting, 4mo. 12, 1725:

"New Garden Preparative Meeting has Acquainted this Meeting y^t Nehemiah Hutton has been found In Company keeping & playing Cards which has brought reproach upon truth & friends, & this Meeting has put him upon to Draw up Something for ye Clearing of truth Against ye Next Monthly Meeting which he Acknowledges and is willing to do

6 Mo., 6, 1725. "Nehemiah Hutton has given in a paper Condemning himself for his playing at Cards which paper this meeting receives & orders him to read ye S^d Paper in ye place where he was playing & in ye Presents of Benjamin ffred & Willm Halliday & that they give an Account to ye next Monthly Meeting & that he is desired to forbear coming to meetings of business until friends be better Satisfied with him as to his conversation and Sincerity to truth." Joseph Hadley was dealt with in the same way.

At Warrington Monthly Meeting, in 1769, Timothy Kirk acknowledged his error in dancing, and in 1777, Elizabeth Blackburn expressed her sorrow for "having Endeavored to dance."

The Friends, in common with other people of the early part of the period under our study, seem to have indulged freely in strong drink. The Temperance movement, which was initiated by Friends, was of later origin. So long as members kept sober no complaint was made, but when they got Drinking.

"It is now become the practice of some otherwise discreet women, instead of a draught of beer and toast, or a chunk of bread and cheese or a wooden noggin of good porrige and bread, as our good old English custom is, or milk and bread boiled, or tea and bread and butter or milk or milk coffee &c that they must have their two or three drams in the morning."

Here are some cases of intemperance of Irish Friends brought before New Garden Monthly Meeting:

10 Mo 12, 1724.—"Whereas Joseph & Nehemiah H——— being both overtaken in Drink in ye County of New Castle & have condemned ye Same Under their hands which papers were read heere to ye Satisfaction of this Meeting & Appoints Benjamin ffred to read ye Same in ye Next first dayes Meeting."

10 Mo 12, 1724.—"Thomas Jackson of Thomas Town in Marlborough has appeared at this meeting as desired & has Signified y^t it was not ye greatness of ye quantity of drink but beeing unwell for Some time before which he thinks was ye cause of this Sickness but for ye Clearing of truth he is willing to give in a paper, therefore he is desired to bring it ye next Monthly Meeting."

2. Mo. 10. 1726.—"Dear friends whereas it Accidentally hapened y^t I was overtaken In Licquor and I do believe y^t my being before unwell & weak of body was Some occasion of it & I am Sory for it as witness my hand.

A certificate for John Wright and children, directed to Sadsbury, was granted at New Garden Monthly Meeting, Chester County, 4 Mo. 28, 1746. Their daughter daughter Rachel, as stated in her memorial[1] "was born at Castleshane,[2] in Ireland, in the year 1737, and removed to Pennsylvania with her parents, John and Elizabeth Wright, who, after some years, settled in York County, within the compass of Warrington monthly-meeting." They had nine children: I. Mary; II. Samuel; III. Rachel; IV. Joseph; V. Alice; VI. Benjamin; VII. John; VIII. Joel; IX. Jonathan.

"There is not one of the family but what likes the country very well and wod If we were in Ireland again come here Directly it being the best country for working folk & tradesmen of any in the world, but for Drunkards and Idlers, they cannot live well any where."—Letter of an Irish Quaker, 1725.

CHAPTER V.

WAYS AND MEANS OF MIGRATION

The Certificate of Removal

IN preparing to emigrate the Friends usually gave at least a month's notice to the meeting to which they belonged, of their intended departure, requesting that a certificate of removal, certifying to their membership in the Society, be given them to take into the new land. If, after due inquiry by a committee appointed for the purpose, the applicants were found to be in good standing in the Society and in the neighborhood in which they lived, the document was drawn up and signed by members of meeting in due time for the day of departure. In many cases, however the emigrants waited until after their arrival in Pennsylvania before writing to Ireland for the certificate. The following extract from the minutes of the Preparative Meeting at Grange, near Charlemount, Ireland, shows the mode of procedure in the preparation of the certificates:

"Att a men's meeting held ye 2^d of ye 4th month [1736] Joshua March [Marsh] having an Intention to transport himself & family to America & desires from us a certificate therefore Jacob Marshill James Pillar is desired to their titles. In 1712, Gayen Miller, of Kennett, purchased 700 acres, while the next year grants were made to John Lowden, James Lindley, Michael Lightfoot, Joseph Hutton, from County Carlow; James Starr, from County Meath; William Halliday, from County West Meath; Thomas Jackson, from Queen's County; and John Miller, from Grange near Charlemont; and in 1714, to Thomas Garnett, from Grange near Charlemont, and to Joseph Sharp, possibly from Dublin or near by. The whole amount of land purchased by these Friends, including two grants to Mary Rowland, in 1708, and to Abram Marshall in 1713, Friends not from Ireland, was 5413 acres, at the rate of £20 per hundred, or according to modern computation, one dollar per acre.

A draft[1] of the Manor, made not long after the above grants, probably by John Taylor, surveyor, is reproduced on the next page in the form of a map, and shows that nearly the whole of what is now New Garden Township was seated by Irish Friends.[2] The following is a list of the first settlers of the Manor, as shown on this map, the numbers indicating the location of the land and the asterisk showing who were Irish Friends:

[1] The original draft is in possession of Thompson Richards, of Toughkenamon, who is a descendant of several families of Irish Friends, and who owns and resides upon a large part of the 700 acres granted to his ancestor, Mary Rowland, in 1708.

The tracts, as may be seen, were mostly rectangular. In the north-east corner we find Robert Johnson, from County Carlow, with 200 acres, confirmed to him in 1715; Evan Evans, probably a Welshman, with 500 acres in the north-west corner, which he sold some time prior to 1716 to Thomas Garnett; Joseph Sharp below him on White Clay Creek, 200 acres, tory of the land, as laid out in this draft, from the first to the present owners, which appeared in the weekly issues of the Kennett Square (Pa.) Advance, during the years 1898 and 1899. Ellwood Michener, who is a prominent member of New Garden Monthly Meeting and a son of the late Dr. Ezra Michener, author of A Retrospect of Quakerism, so frequently cited in this work, is the custodian of a large collection of Friends' records kept in a safe at his residence in New Garden, and as a surveyor and conveyancer for many years in the Township, he has had exceptional opportunities for the compilation of these sketches. What makes the sketches of special value is the fact that he has made use of the original title deeds, many of which have not been recorded.

sembly in 1714, but died the same year.[1] Next south of Miller's large tract, Joseph Hutton held 250 acres on the west line, and James Starr 350 acres on the middle line. Of 900 acres south of these, Francis Hobson, from Grange near Charlemont, held 200 acres in the north-east corner and the remainder was purchased by Gayen Miller. From this southward there was a vacant tract of several thousand acres.

Of the twenty-two persons taxed in New Garden in 1715, fifteen were Irish Friends, as follows: Mary Miller, 9s.; Michael Lightfoot, 2s.; William Halliday, 2s. 7d.; Margaret Lowden, 2s.; James Lindley, 4s. 6d.; Thomas Jackson, 3s.; James Starr, 3s.; Francis Hobson, 2s.; Joseph Garnett, 2s.; Robert Johnson, 2s.; John Sharp, 3s. 6d.; Joseph Sharp, 2s.; John Wiley, 2s. 4d.; Thomas Garnett, 3s. 9d.; Benjamin Fred, 2s. 1d.

New Garden Meeting

At first the Friends of the New Garden settlement attended Kennett Meeting, but soon they were allowed to hold a meeting of their own, as evidenced by the following extracts from the Minutes of Chester Quarterly Meeting:

12 Mo. 2, 1712.—"Newark monthly meeting requests that there may be a first & fifth Days meeting settled at John Miller's. This meeting, considering thereof, thinks fitt to Refer the further Consideration thereof to the next Quarterly meeting."

the nineteenth century, and now meetings are held on only one First-day each year.

A large number of Irish Friends made their way to the Warrington settlement. Among them were Thomas Wilson, from Grange, near Charlemont, about 1748, a little later removing to Fairfax Meeting, Virginia; Thomas Blackburn, from Ballyhagen, County Armagh, about 1749; the brothers George, John, and William McMillan, from Nantmeal, Chester County, about 1750; John Marsh and sons John, Joshua, Jonathan, and William, also from Nantmeal, about same date; Peter Marsh, brother of John, from same place about same date; William Nevitt, a minister in the Society, from Moate, County West Meath, about 1751; William Hutton, from New Garden, Chester County, about 1751; Samuel Hutton, from Exeter, Berks County, about 1753; Nicholas Steer, from Sadsbury, about 1759; John Boyd and son William, from Sadsbury, the former about 1765 and the latter about 1754; James Love, from Sadsbury, about 1761; Francis and Thomas Wilkinson, with their mother, Elizabeth, widow of Joseph Wilkinson, from Chester County, about 1760; Francis Hobson,[1] from Ballyhagen, County Armagh, about 1764; Aaron Coates, from Bradford, Chester County, about 1767; William Pillar, from Grange near Charlemont, about 1767,

John Fred, of Parish of Drumlane, County Cavan, was married 11 Mo. 6, 1685, at Belturbet to Catherine Starkey, of County Cavan. Children of John and Catharine Fred, of Drumlaine, County Cavan: Benjamin, b. 9 Mo. 5, 1687; Mary, b. 8 Mo. 2, 1691, d. 11 Mo. 27, 1704, buried at New Garden; Nicholas, b. 1 Mo. 2, 1694; Abigail, b. 2 Mo. 4, 1696, buried 6 Mo. 28, 1697; Rachel, b. 5 Mo. 29, 1698; Sarah, b. 7 Mo. 15, 1700, at Coolattin [Cooladine]; John, b. 12 Mo. 20, 1703, at Coolattin. (Records of Carlow Monthly Meeting.)

In 1671, in County Armagh, John Fred had his goods seized by the "priest" of Loughall for tithes (Stockdale, 4). William Edmundson (Journal, 280) states that in 1706 he came "to Enniscorphy [Enniscorthy] and the next Day went to John Fred's and had a large Meeting in a Barn, it being on first Day of the Week."

John Fred and his family settled in Birmingham, Chester County, where John died March, 1719–1720, and his widow in 1723.

Catharine Fred, the widow, whose will was made 8 Mo. 23, 1723 (probated 9 Mo. 12, 1723), mentions her cousins Mary Hutton and Deborah Starr and her brother-in-law, Thomas Jackson.

Benjamin Fred, son of John, was m. 4 Mo. 20, 1721, to Deborah, daughter of Simon Hadly, of New Castle County, and removed to New Garden, where he died in 1752, leaving no children. His sister Rachel married 4 Mo. 20, 1721, James Miller, son of Gayen, of Kennett, and after his death married James Miller, son of James and Catharine.

Nicholas Fred, son of John, married about 1720, Ann, daughter of Joseph Need, of Darby. He lived in Birmingham and was interested in a mill there. Had children: Mary, John, Joseph, Catharine.

Joseph Fred was married 10 Mo. 18, 1753, to Sarah, daughter of Joshua Hadly, then of Virginia. He removed to the neighborhood of New Garden, and had children: Mary, Ann, Benjamin, Joseph, Joshua, Thomas, and Nicholas.—Futhey and Cope, Hist. Chester County, 553–4.

ABRAHAM WIDDOS, received 2 Mo. 7, 1718, from Mountmellick Meeting, Queen's County, Ireland. He married Elizabeth Pyle, in 1720, and in the same year was recommended as a minister.

John Miller,[1] son of John Miller, born at "Breckenbrough, in ye Parish of Kerbywilk in Yorkshire," in 1633, went over into Ireland as a planter, in 1657, and married Ann, daughter of William Clibborn, who was born in 1630, at Cowley, in the County of Durham, England. Their children were: William, b. 1659, at Moate, Margaret, b. 1662, Shurrch? d. 1668; John, b. 1665, at Moate; Thomas, b. 1667, at Ballynalinch; Abraham, b. 1670, at Glin, County West Meath; and Isaac, b. 1672, at Glin, County West Meath. (Potts, Our Family Ancestors, 245–6.)

One John Miller, possibly a son of the above John Miller, married Mary, sister of Andrew Ignew and as early as 1693 was living within the limits of Grange Meeting near Charlemont, County Armagh, Ireland. He and his family arrived in Chester County, Pa., in 1709, and, as we have seen on page 135, settled on a large tract of land in New Garden Township. He was a prominent member of New Garden Meeting and was elected to the Provincial Assembly in 1714, but died that same year.

Mary Miller, his widow, died in 1730. In her will, dated 5 Mo. 12, 1730, probated August 10, 1730, she mentions her "Kinsman John Too" and leaves £30 "to pay ye passage of or Charges of three of my brother Andrew Ignews[2] Children in Coming to this Country, provided they Come in ye Space of two years after my decease."

In 1735 their daughter, Ann[5] Van Laer, born 1716, married, as second wife, John Strangeways Hutton, an account of whom, by Charles Wilson Peale, is given in the Columbian Magazine for September, 1792, and whose portrait, from an oil painting by Peale, is reproduced in Watson's Annals. He was a son of John Hutton, born in Scotland, and grandson of Arthur Strangeways, of New York, who died in Boston at the age, it is said, of 101 years.

John Strangeways Hutton and his wife Ann[5] (Van Laer) Hutton are buried in the Third Presbyterian Churchyard of recorded in Besse's Sufferings of the Quakers. At Marsden Monthly Meeting of Friends, Lancashire, 3d mo. 20, 1686, James Sikes gives notice of his intention to remove with his wife Elizabeth, his son Simon, and daughter Elizabeth, to America. Philadelphia. The inscription on their tombstone reads: "In Memory of Ann Hutton, who died November 14th, 1788, Aged 72 years. Also, of John Hutton, who died December 23rd, 1792, Aged 108 years and 4 months." Of their sons: George[6] Hutton married August 11, 1760, Mary Moore. Their daughter Mary Hutton married John McMullin of Philadelphia, who left descendants of this and other surnames, among whom were the wives of the late Major-General William Scott Ketchum and Colonel Franklin Foster Flint. John[6] Hutton married October 6, 1764, Elizabeth Merritt. He died December 6, 1791, and his wife April 11, 1828, in the 80th year of her age. They are buried in St. Peter's Churchyard, Philadelphia. They left descendants living in Philadelphia, many of whom are mentioned in Descendants of Jöran Kyn, including their grandson Adjutant-Lieutenant John[8] Galt Hutton, who served in the War of 1812; and their grand-daughter, Lucinda[8] Ann Hutton, who married, October 27, 1842, John Swift Keen. Gregory[9] Barnard Keen, LL.D., 1844-1930, a son of this marriage, was one of the most talented descendants of William-Preston the propositus, as well as one of Philadelphia's distinguished men of letters. For twenty years the Curator of The Historical Society of Pennsylvania, he had previously succeeded Frederick D. Stone as its Librarian. Benjamin[6] Hutton married Rebecca Plumsted, whose descendants are mentioned in Chronicles of the Plumsted Family by Eugene Devereux, and Keith's Provincial Councillors of Pennsylvania. In the former work, pp. 64, 65, it is erroneously assumed that William and Ann Preston came from the County of Norfolk, England, presumably because their arms were the same as the Prestons of that county. As heretofore shown, this particular Preston family came from Northumberland. The facts, however, are correctly stated in the article written by Gregory Bernard Keen, LL.D., concerning the Hutton, Plumsted and Devereux families.*

7. PAUL[5] PRESTON (Amor,[4] William,[3] Henry,[2] William[1]), born 1724, died in Buckingham, Bucks County, October 19, 1806. Following family example he was prominent in the religious body of which he was a member. From 1755 to 1777 he was clerk of Buckingham Meeting of Friends. By close application he became an excellent mathematician and linguist,

CHAPTER XII

All that I know about our Huttons is contained within these pages. As we are about to close the Pennsylvania chapter of their lives, I will sum up before following them to other frontiers.

Originally, I had supposed that our Huttons would be linked to the Quaker Huttons of York county. It did not seem that there would be two families of the name of Hutton living in close proximity at that early date without some connection, since the name does not appear profusely among lists of early settlers in the Colonies. Even by 1790 some states had no Huttons at all.

In the census of 1790, there were 55 Hutton families listed in the entire nation; of these, about 30 were in Pennsylvania; somewhat over half of these, perhaps two-thirds, were Quakers. There were 10 Hutton families in Maryland and 5 in Virginia; doubtless some of these, in coming to America, had made for Delaware River points as had those who settled in Pennsylvania. Many people crossed over from Pennsylvania into the wilds of western Virginia and this could be the case with the Virginia Huttons. There were 9 Hutton families in New York, and this would be an unrelated immigration. South Carolina had two Hutton families and Connecticut had one. Thus, the name, while appearing rather plentifully in parts of Pennsylvania, was not common elsewhere, which argues that there must have been some kinship among some of the various Huttons of Pennsylvania.

When it became apparent that the Quaker and non-Quaker Huttons of York County would be only remotely connected, if at all, I began to search for a family of non-Quakers in the region. In finding the names of John and Robert Hutton on the petition formerly mentioned, dated 1756, I thought that this might be a significant discovery, and indeed it may have been. It was logical to asume that these men were living out on the western frontier, and needed military assistance. I did not think that Quakers would be asking for such assistance, for these reasons: first, the Quakers were pacifists, and believed in fairness and brotherhood with the Indians, rather than military action; also the Quakers tended to live in more settled regions to the east, whereas the Scotch-Irish were out on the frontier, and the petition came from the settlers on the frontier where the brunt of any Indian attack would be felt. The numerous names on the petition with a distinctive Scotch-Irish cast convinced me that these Huttons would be of a kind with our people.

However, I never found another shred of evidence of the existence of a Robert Hutton.

In the tax lists of 1779-1783 inclusive, there was a John Hutton throughout the five years, in Tyrone Township, a Scotch-Irish settlement. He progressed from one hundred acres in 1779 to one hundred fifty acres in 1783. In Huntington Township, which adjoins Tyrone, an Elizabeth Hutton, or "Widow" Hutton appeared throughout. She was assessed taxes on 100 acres. However, in this same township, Leonard and Edward "Hutton" appeared,[1] and they were definitely Hattons. This causes one to wonder if Elizabeth Hutton was not a Hatton, perhaps also Robert Hutton. Searches of the indices to the wills and probates of York and Adams Counties, and of the land transfers and other possibilities, both under the name of Hutton and Hatton, have not revealed who our George and Charles Hutton were.

The Hatton family of Huntington Township was strongly enough situated financially to leave records; there was no correspondingly well-set Hutton family in York County, excepting the Quakers, unless it would be John, of Tyrone Township. He was there early enough, 1750s, to have possibly been the antecedent of our Huttons, but I could not find the evidence.

In the tax lists, Elizabeth Hutton, sometimes recorded as "Widow" Hutton, was shown to have 100 acres of land;[2] searches of the aforementioned records, and records of the land office at Harrisburg, yielded no information of an Elizabeth Hutton acquiring land or disposing of it in York County. Neither could anything be learned of Robert Hutton. Throughout the period with which we are dealing, there were Quakers, William and John Hutton in Menallen Township in western York (now Adams) County. In the 1790 census, however, there was only one John Hutton in York County, probably the Quaker. There was, however, Thomas Hutton of Chanceford Township, another Scotch-Irish settlement. Considering that all the non-Quaker Huttons seem to have settled in Scotch-Irish settlements; Thomas in Chanceford Township; John in Tyrone Township; James in Cumberland County; and Charles in Donegal Township, Westmoreland County, it is quite easy to believe that they were Scotch-Irish. In addition, one would think that there must have been some degree of kinship between some of them, at least. If not, we have several factions, all unrelated, of a name which is not especially frequent, in fact is rather infrequent in records of those times.

Thomas Hutton of Chanceford Township acquired his first land, as far as I was able to discover, after George and Charles Hutton had left Pennsylvania.[3] Thus it would appear that he was in about the age bracket as they and would not be an antecedent.

I do not know the degree of literacy of any of the Huttons, other than George and Charles, except James, of Cumberland County. Apparently he was able to sign his own pension papers.[4] Since George and Charles signed documents by mark, one wonders if they arrived in America as young adults with the great Scotch-Irish immigration of the early 1770s. Had they been reared in York County, one would think that they should have received enough education to be able to sign their names. In Ireland, as the sons of a poor tenant on the estate of some landlord, their education very likely would have been neglected.

By far the most of the Huttons listed in the 1790 census of Pennsylvania were the Quakers. They can usually be identified because of their well kept records, and they almost invariably had Biblical names. There was a Margaret Hutton, a slave owner, in Fayette County; she probably had come there from Virginia. In Washington County, other than the Quakers, there was an Alexander Hutton shown. I know nothing of him; he may have been a Hatton.

On various tax lists there were Huttons who did not later appear in the census. They may have moved on, or been overlooked by the census taker. They were not numerous. There was a John Hutton in Fayette County in 1786; one in Westmoreland County in 1783; there was also one in Huntingdon County in 1788. A Mary Hutten also was found in Westmoreland County in 1783; she had 300 acres of land.[5] I did not discover how this land was acquired or disposed of.

It is puzzling how a person's name appears on a tax list for a fixed amount of money on a fixed number of acres of land, when the records of the land office and of the county reveal nothing of that person's acquisition of the land. One wonders if land taxes were levied against persons squatting on land, on the assumption that they intended to acquire title, and would do so eventually, and meanwhile were deriving use from it. The land policies of Pennsylvania were so many-faceted, changing constantly in intent and application, that a study of it in depth would be a large undertaking. It is easy to understand how one historian was to say, after producing a thesis on the subject, "As for the part which squatters play in Western Pennsylvania, there is much yet to be said. I have hardly touched the surface of the subject."[6]

If anything more is to be learned about our Huttons, it must be found in Pennsylvania; as one moves the search westward the name appears more frequently, and there is more confusion, and less chance of finding the link to the past.

The Hutton name was transplanted into western Virginia early; in making searches after 1850 in states to the west, one encounters Huttons who trace their origin to Virginia.

Many immigrants to America landed at Delaware river points and made their way westward in Pennsylvania, and then crossed over into Virginia. They were usually Scotch-Irish, though sometimes German; these Scotch-Irish were known as the Scotch-Irish of the Dispersion, and they made their way over the Piedmont Plateau as far as the Carolinas.[7] Probably the Virginia Huttons were of this group. John McCallister Hutton, who served in the Revolution from North Carolina, and received a land grant in Tennessee, was born in County Tyrone in Northern Ireland.[8] Perhaps he was one of these.

Finally, as to religious affiliation: some of the sons of Charles Hutton were Baptists; of the others, I do not know their affiliation. Had these people been of Scottish descent, probably they would have been Presbyterian. Northern Ireland was strongly, though not exclusively, Presbyterian.

I have always believed that the origin of our line was the north country of England, with or without, but probably with a sojourn of a generation or more in some part of Ireland.

Having stated my impressions, and feeling that I have done the best that I can, I proceed with the narrative.

There was no public house at that time. The company would not tolerate any upon its own grounds, would not sell ground for hotel purposes. Jacob Stehley, a gentleman at large, who died at Harrisburg a few years ago, rather eccentric, yet very entertaining and full of wit and humor—in his latter days fond of hunting and fishing—"botched" in the woods at that time, supported by his son John, at Harrisburg. Mr. Stehley was about sixty years of age, and quite intelligent, full of information and lively when in company, which he tried to avoid, preferring the life of a hermit.

The mail was gotten at Thomas Harper's, at the Forge. Isaac Ferree was quite an old man then. Had sons running a saw mill in "Greenland"—the only saw mill then about. The mill in "Greenland" was erected in 1840, by the Ferree's—Joel, Jefferson, Washington, Uriah, and Jacob. Shortly afterwards the mill at Round Top was erected by the same parties, and the one at Greenland abandoned. The elections were held at the tavern of Michael Shaeffer.

Deer were plenty—bear also—fish in abundance—wild turkeys. The men employed in the mines about twenty. The old Lykens Valley breaker was erected in 1845–7. No breaker in 1840. The mines were then a mere drift.

In 1853 there were about fifty houses in Lykens. About the same number in Wiconisco. The Orders in 1853 were the American Mechanics and Sons of Temperance. No Odd Fellows at that time. They organized shortly after. The Orders mentioned met in John Hensel's building on Main street, second story, steps on the outside leading up. No minister then resident in Lykens. Preaching in the stone church, Lykens, the only church then, by Watson, it is thought. The first railroad consisted of wrought-iron tacked on wooden rails—called by the natives the "Slabtrack" road.

cians, clergymen, lawyers, and schoolmasters of South Carolina, and made substantial contributions to her literature and general culture.[20]

From Pennsylvania came a few pioneers, chiefly of Scotch-Irish stock, to Georgia and the Old Southwest. Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, and Texas received a goodly number of their pioneer settlers from the Scotch-Irish of Virginia, the Carolinas, and Tennessee. These were in large measure the descendants of Pennsylvanians who had originally peopled the uplands of the southern seaboard states and may be regarded as being, in some sense, Pennsylvania Scotch-Irish of the dispersion.[21] The connection, however, is too slight to warrant extended treatment in the space at our disposal, nor is it proposed to follow the Scotch-Irish in all their wanderings.

Tennessee and Kentucky

Of greater significance than in the case of the Old Southwest was the contribution made by Pennsylvania to the settlement of the New West, especially of Kentucky. Tennessee and Kentucky began to be peopled in the Revolutionary era, and, as the first states west of the Alleghenies to be settled, the story of their beginnings is replete with interest. Our theme has but slight direct bearing upon the early settlers of Tennessee, since Pennsylvania was not largely represented in the inrush of immigrants who laid the foundations of that commonwealth. Only a few of these pioneers came directly from Pennsylvania, although thousands of them were of the Pennsylvania Scotch-Irish stock which, in the preceding generation, had settled in Virginia and the Carolinas. When viewed from this angle, Pennsylvania's share in the settlement of Tennessee was considerable. Following the Battle of Alamance, many Scotch-Irishmen residing in the North Carolina uplands migrated to Tennessee and located on the Watauga and Holston Rivers. The present counties of Washington, Carter,

Dear Mrs. Huber:

We have three family histories entitled:

1. Horns A-Plenty, A Genealogy by Carolyn Horn Beck of Auburn, Alabama in July 1966. Printed and bound by Paragon Press of Montgomery, Alabama. This has a subtitle of Descendants of Richard Whitehead Horn of Crenshaw County, Alabama, 1801-1965.

2. The Ancestors and Descendants of Edward Traill Horn, 1850-1915 and Harriet Chisolm, 1861-1946. This is published by John C. Horn Associates of Huntingdon, Pennsylvania 16652 in 1976 with the compiler being Ruth H. Thompson of New Castle, Pennsylvania.

3. Familyscope by James Marion Horn in 1936. This is a very old and fragile book and seems to include Logan County, Arkansas.

Unfortunately, we cannot do research for our patrons nor do any of our materials leave this Library. The enclosed list of people may be of help to you. Please make all financial arrangements with them.

We are pleased to xerox pages from books as long as we have specific references, author, title and specific page numbers. Our charge is 25¢ per page.

Good luck with your research.

CHAPTER VIII

INDEX OF PERSONS FOR WHOM LAND WAS SURVEYED

The names of the persons for whom the tracts were surveyed are alphabetically listed in this Index. Many times a name is indicated in the records as having a previous right, possession or interest in the land. Occasionally the heirs of a deceased person is listed. Often the name of the original Warantee is supplied. In all these instances where it appears that a person has some title in the land, the name has been included in this Index. For church property and estates, the names are often listed as, in Trust. In these cases each name is indexed separately. Every effort has been made to affix a date to the entries. Only whole acres are given herein, the perches being disregarded. Area of less than one acre is listed as one acre. I have attempted to give the spellings of the names as found. The only exception being where given names were entered in abbreviated form, which have herein been spelled in full. Where doubt existed as to spelling or date, a question mark follows the information. The last column in the tabulation contains the aerial photo map number on which the tract is located. Where only the letters AHC appear, without the remaining four or five figures or letters, it shall be indicative that the land has been plotted in connected survey form, but aerial maps are not in personal possession. However, in many cases the location can be shown on Coast and Geodetic survey maps.

Subject: [VAWYTHE] Hutton Family
Content-Type: TEXT/PLAIN; charset=US-ASCII

Hello cousins,

I am researching the HUTTON line and SAYERS/SAWYERS line that livedin Wythe County in the 1840-1860 time frame. Leonard Hutton and his first wife Martha McCall (m1793) and his second wife Nancy Baugh Hutton (m1818) lived in WYTHE Co. Previously they lived in PA, and Washington Co, VA and finally in SmythCounty, where Leonard HUTTON died in 1863 at the age of 97. Children that may have been born in Wythe Co:

1863
1766

1.John HUTTON (b~1793)
2. MArtha HUTTON m Nathaniel JONES
3. JAMES HUTTON (b~1804) who married Elizabeth PHILLIPS, m2 Martha McCall Carson (widow) on 5 jan 1864
4. DIXON HUTTON (b~1811) who married ELIZABETH WOLFE on 9 Jan 1837,m2 to Nancy Nikirk on 28 Feb 1855, died 4 Oct 1862 in Smyth Co
5. ROBERT HUTTON (b~1813) who married Mary Polly COPENHAVER on 14 Jan 1836 and died on 19 July 1855 in Smyth Co, VA
6. Edward HUTTON (b26 Dec 1812) married Elizabeth WOLFE, d/o Martin and Rachel DeBord Wolfe.
7. WILLIAM WOLFE (b~1814) died in Feb 1888 in Washington Co, Va

8. DAVID HUTTON (b~1819) m. Sarah Rice on 24 Aug 1840
9. Abraham HUTTON (b~1824) m. Mary Slemp on 15 Feb 1847.
10. Mahlon HUTTON (b~1830) married Elizabeth Betsey CORMANY and died 3 Aug 1870 in Smyth county, Va.
11. Elizabeth HUTTON (b~1822)who never married.

Does anyone have any information on these people, or where I could find birth records in this period?

Thanks so much

Diane

Hi friends and family!

One of the things i really wanted to accomplish was to identify all of the early Huttons in Washington County, Va. I think we were able to successfully identify James Hutton and brother John Hutton (Hatton). Moses Hutton we know his wife and children. Pike hypotheised that perhaps he was a son or illegitimate son of Eleanor Hutton (John's first child who we think never married. Eleanor is buried in Old Glade Spring Cemetery (d1839 at age 74 from High on a Windy Hill). Moses Hutton seems to have been quite wealthy from his inventory after his death. Although his will is referred to many times, all I can find is a "codicil" giving his daughter Araminta an extra slave named Emily Jane. So who he descends from is still a little mystery.

There is another missing link Hutton - his name is William Hutton and these are the only references I find for him:

In Washington County Will Book #4, page 320-32- - dated 7 Jan 1820
The will of James Hutton (who married Isabel Orr and Sarah Porterfield) was signed in the presence of James Meek, Dickson Hatton, William Hatton and Edward Hatton (Dickson and Edward were James's brothers - who is this William?)

Donna Jean Ford sent a Deed from Washington County, Va Deed Book 12: 137-138, dated 17 April 1835. This William Hutton is identified, unfortunately!!!!, as being in custody and having to transfer to the high Sheriff of Washington Co, Va some land to satisfy a suit brought by Benjamin Whitaker, executor of Esau Hayter, dec'd. He takes the oath of insolvency in order to be released from prison. this is how the land is described: "..my interest in a salt lick together with fifteen acres of land round it on a tract of land willed by Esau Hayter deceased to Polly Whitaker Hayter, daughter of said Hayter, the said interest being derived by me in right of my wife under the will of the aforesaid Esau Hayter..."

I believe that this William is probably too old to be William (s/o Dickson Hutton) or William (B~1814, son of Leonard Hutton - recent verification!!).

So who does he belong to? He "appears" to be in the same generation as brothers Edward, John, James Dickson, Leonard, all sons of John and Jane Hatton) and Moses.

ALSO, I recently got this message from Jeannie: She says her great great grandfather was William B Hatton and he came to Clay Co, KY as a single man around 1840. She had some information that he might have been born in Pitt Co, NC about 1812, but not verified) In the Clay Co, KY 1840 there is the following entry:

Lewis Hatton - 1 male 20-30, 1 male 50-60 1 female 50-60
(Edward Hatton John and James father died 1777) had a brother
Lewis Hatton, this one is too young, but may be related....

William married on 24 June 1841 in Clay Co, KY to Nancy Lucas. nancy died 10 Jan 1912 in Clay Co as a widow. William died in 1890 and both are buried in the Hatton Cemetery in Clay Co, KY. they had 9 children that Jeannie knows of, one was named Lewis.

All this might be several different Williams. I would appreciate any further reference to him, if anyone has it or lookups in the early Censuses? I did not see him in the 1810 (with Moses, Leonard, Jr, Leonard Sr, Dickson, Edward, James, James, Sr, and John)

I do see one William Hutton in the 1820 census - can someone find the numbers?

There is a William Hutton in the Militia of Washignton Co, Va in the 70th Reg, 1814 (with John in 1818, Leonard in 1805, 1813 and 1814), Moses in 1818.

In the 1830 Census: William Hutton Males: one bet 30-40, one bet 10-15, and one bet 5-10. Females: one between 30-40, one bet 10-14 and one bet 5-10 and two under five. Eight people.

1840 Census for Smyth county: William Hutton. Males: one bet 40-50, one bet 20-30 and one under 5. Females: one bet 20-30 and one under 5. Five people - 1 employed in agriculture - 1 can't read.

Hello everyone!
Will Smith has updated his genealogy page, and I highly recommend you bookmark this site. He's added new music, as WAV. file, to the main page, and please be patient while the music file loads. He's also updated his page on William Rice with some of the new data he's found regarding George Rice in White County, TN and Wythe County, VA. Be sure to let him know what you think of his genealogy site.
Thanks

Subject: Re: [VAWYTHE] Need lookup for Rice family
Content-Type: TEXT/PLAIN; charset=US-ASCII

Dear David, this is what I have on the Rice family as it relates to my Huttons:

David HUTTON (b~1819, s/o Leonard and nancy Baugh HUTTON) married Sarah W. RICE on 24 August 1840 in Smyth Co, Va. Sarah was born about 1825. From the 1850 Smyth Co Census, I have children for them:

1. Arthur (b~1841)
2. James A. Hutton (b~1843)
3. George W. Hutton (b~1845)
4. Martha Hutton (b~1848)

From the Smyth County birth records I also have:
5. Dicy E. Hutton (b9 Mar 1853)
6. Richard B. Hutton (11 May 1858)

They identify parents as David and Sarah A. P. Hutton. I haven't had a chance to research these families yet. But David is the son of my direct ancestor, Leonard HUTTON.

Now in the 1850 Smyth County Census, there are about twelve Hutton households in a row. They are all related from Leonard. In the middle of them are:

Dicy RICE, 49, female, born in Georgia, cannot read or write
Thomas L., 21, male, laborer, born in Va
James, 13, male, born in Va.

I hope this will be a help to you. If you have any further information, please let us know. thnaks!

Diane

Hello friends and cousins,

Dee Mathews kindly forwarded this list for us. I will identify the line (if I know it!) that I believe the individuals to be from on the right side of her list. thanks Dee for your help! We see Washington Hutton and his wife Jane Bishop there in Boone County Cemeteries and have what surely is final proof that Washington Hutton (s/o Dickson and Jane Jamison) is not George Washington Hutton (s/o ????).

Am including this because of his first name being 'Washington'

Hope someone out there can figure out the exact birthdates for us on these people!

Edward Hutton's daughter, Susannah Hutton Bishop, and her husband William are supposed to be buried here, but their names were not on this list. The Susannah Dodson listed above is their daughter.

In an earlier email, I saw where Washington Hutton married a Jane Bishop. Do you suppose that William Bishop, husband of Susannah Hutton Bishop, were siblings and traveled to Boone Co. IN together?

Dee Mathews (descendant of the Edward Hutton line)

Yes, Dee is correct. The two Huttons that married Bishops were related. Washington Hutton (s/o Dickson) and Susannah Hutton (d/o Edward) were first cousins since their fathers were brothers. I expect the Bishops may have been related. William was born 19 june 1794. Jane was born circa 1817 according to her tombstone. Susannah and William were about 10 years older than Washington and Jane.

I am looking for more inforamtion on Leonard HUTTON. He was probably born in PA about 1769 and migrated to Washington County, VA by the 1790's. His father may have been James Hutton. There are three marriage records for LEonard Hutton. One is in 1791 to Mary BERRY, the next in 1793 to Martha McCall and the third is in 1818 to Nancy Baugh. I know my Leonard was married to Nancy Baugh as a widower and my direct ancestor was his son Edward Hutton, but I am not sure if my Leonard married both Mary Berry and Martha McCALL and therefore, which one is Edward's mother. There were two Leonard Hutton's in the 1810 Washington Co Census. The one that stayed in VA is my ancestor. They other one was said t o have traveled west. My Leonard died at 97 years of age. Any information would be greatly appreciated!

Elizabeth,

Do you think your William (b1825) could be the son of Leonard Hutton? There were some Huttons who left Washington Co, VA in 1818 for Indiana and MO. They settled with the Scott families that originated with James Hutton's children: Sarah Scott, Jane Scott, Mary Smith and Leonard Hutton.

I am researching the Leonard Hutton who stayed in Washington Co VA area. I think the Leonards were cousins.

James was a popular name in the family. Written on the back of a picture of my 3rd Great-Grandfather James Hutton, is James the 6th. I have come to a dead end with my Hutton brothers in York County. "S. Stahlnakers. The two furthest Settlements in Virginia in the Year 1755."

This is from the 1778 map of Thomas Hutchins, Captain in the 60 Regiment of Foot. The 60th Foot was the Royal American Regiment established by the English Parliament in 1755 after the defeat of General Braddock. See. Lewis Butler, The Annals of the King's Royal Rifle Corps, (London. Smith, Elder and Co., 15 Waterloo Place, 1913). Thomas Hutchins was an Ensign in the Regiment as early as March 2, 1762.

Susan, wife of Wm. Mires" were charged with adultery.[60] About this time there was evidence accumulated in Augusta Court House in which Humberstone Lyon deposed "that James Conoly said Humberstone Lyon stole fifteen red deer skins and also twenty-eight red deer skins which Conoly had left at the house of James Scaggs." This same case contains a deposition by Samuel Stolucher (Samuel Stahlnacker) which is substantially the same as that of Lyon.[61]

The Deutschers and Scotch-Irish continued their restless westward movement, across Woods (New) River on to the Indian (Holston). Out of the Irish Tract they had become the cutting edge of settlement — roads they needed and roads they petitioned for — and they emphasized that they were the frontiersmen.

"We petitioners, (circa 1749) *being the frontier inhabitants of this colony, labor under great inconveniences for want of a road being opened from our settlement towards the landing, and there being (as we presume) a sufficient number of inhabitants to open one, we therefore humbly pray that your worship will be graciously pleased to take our case under your serious consideration and grant an order for a road to be opened from Zachariah Callhouns, on Reedy Creek, and thence to the Buffalo Lick and from thence the nearest and best way to Woods River, at the upper end of a small island below the mouth of the Little River, and thence towards the forks of Meadow Creek, and thence to the top of the dividing ridge between Woods River and the South Fork of Roanoke, and that John Vance and Alexander Sayers be appointed to mark and lay off said road from Said Callhouns to Woods River, and that John Stroud and James Conley mark and lay off from thence to the aforesaid dividing ridge, etc.

That John McFarland and Joseph Crockett be appointed overseers to open and clear said road from said Calhoun's to Woods River, with the subscribers and the adjacent inhabitants and that William Crispe and William Pellem be appointed overseers from Woods River to the aforesaid dividing ridge, etc., and we, your petitioners, shall pray Hendery Battan (Henry Hattan?), Jacob Goldman, Jacob Goldman (Father and Son — could this be the above "Jacob Woolman and two sons" assigned November 19, 1746, to work the road from Reed Creek to Eagle Bottom, etc.? — Woolman never again seemingly appears in frontier records), Frederick Cadock, John Scott, John Combe, Samuel Stonacie (Samuel Stahlnacker?), Robert McFarland, John Stead, Mordecai Early, John Downing, Charles Sincler (Sinclair's Bottom in Smyth County), William Sayers, William Hamilton, Robert V(N)orris, Samuel Mountgomery, Andrew Lynam, James Macee, James Heris, Robert Miller, John Miller, Robert Allcorn, William Miller, John McFarland, Joseph Crockett, Val. Wilcher, Humberston Lyon, James Miller, Stephen Lyon, Thomas Barnes, James Willy, John Vance, Alexander Sayers, Jacob Cassall, John Gorman."[62]

The road petition was approved by the Augusta Court on May 23, 1750, (two months after Thomas Walker and party aided Samuel Stahlnacker in building his frontier cabin) when a road was ordered "from Ezekiel Calhoun's (is this the Zachariah Callhouns, on Reedy Creek, named in the petition? — it fits) to Wood's River, thence to Top of Ridge between Wood's River and the South Fork of Roanoke." John McFarland and Joseph Crockett were to be surveyors of former, and Wm. Crisp and Wm. Pellam, of latter part, with tithables, and the following: Henry Batton (Henry Hatton?), Mordecai Early, John McFarland, Jacob Goldman, John Downing, John Goldman, Charles Sinclair (Sinclair's Bottom), Nathaniel Wilshire, Wm. Sayers, Jacob Goldman, Wm. Hamilton, Humbertson Lyon, Frederick Carlock, Robert Norris, James Miller, James Cave, Saml. Montgomerie, Steven Lyon, John Conley, Andrew Linam, James Willbey, Saml. Stanlick (Samuel Stahlnacker?), James Maies, Robert McFarlin, James Harris, John Vance, John Stride, Robert Miller, Alexr. Sayers, John Miller, Jacob Castle, Robert Alcorn, John Forman, Wm. Miller.[63]

On November 21, 1752, Samuel Stahlnacker qualified as a militia "Capn. of Foot" in Augusta County.[64]

It would be November 24, 1753 (Samuel Stahlnacker's cabin had been on the Holston more than three and a half years), when the Augusta Court ordered a road built "from Saml. Stalnaker's, on Holston River, to James Davis's — Saml. Stalnaker to be overseer, with these workers: James Davis and his sons, Frederick Corlock, David, George, and Conrad Corlock, Frederick Starn, Jacob and Adam Stalnaker, Jacob and Henry Goldman, Isaiah Hamilton, Hamilton Shoemaker, Timothy Coe, Humphry Baker and son, George Stalnaker, Adam Andrews, Mathias Sarch, Michael Hook, Martin Counce, Jacob Mires."[65]

The first cabins of Samuel Stahlnacker and Humphrey Baker gave Washington County Stahlnaker's Creek and Baker's Creek. Today, with interstate roadways and spanning highway bridges, waterways have lost all significance to road users; in fact, local creeks and branches have lost their identity even in farming communities. There no longer is a reason for discussing water courses, for there is always an available bridge. Almost never does one ford a stream in 1976, that is, beyond farmers and property owners on their own holdings.

However, the mention of Stahlnacker's Creek or Baker's Creek was a distinguishing feature of local land deeds made in the late eighteenth, and deep into the nineteenth, century. For instance, Humphrey Baker and his wife, Anne, on February 6, 1788, sold 430 acres to John Hatton, Senior,[66] which were described as being "a certain tract or parcel of land lying and being situate in the County aforesaid (Washington, but it must be kept in mind that this was before the formation of Smyth County) on Stalnaker's Creek granted by the Commonwealth aforesaid to said Humphrey Baker by patent dated November the twenty-third day one thousand seven hundred and eighty-five. Surveyed the ninth day of April one thousand seven hundred and fifty-three, and being a part of an Order of Council granted to the Loyal Company to take up and survey eight hundred thousand acres of land, which Order of Council was established and confirmed by a Decree of the Court of Appeal made in the City of Richmond the Second day of May one thousand seven hundred and eighty-three."[67]

Property on Stahlnacker's Creeek touched other property along the Washington-Smyth line.[68] A deed from John Hatton, Senior, and Jane, his wife, to John Hatton, Junior, had a "corner on David Beattie's Land;"[69] Another deed from the same couple to Leonard Hatton had a, "Beginning at John Beattie's corner," and had a "corner to Robert Baker's survey;"[70] both were on Stahlnacker's Creek. John Hatton, Sr., and Jane, his wife, also deeded land to Edward Hatton "on both sides of Stalnicker's Creek."[71] Robert Baker of Green County, Tennessee, deeded to Dixon Hatton fifty acres "on the east side of Baker's Creek."[72]

Even though Humphrey Baker's original grant was located on Stahlnacker's Creek, he gave his name to an adjacent creek or branch as demonstrated here. Moreover, a deed from John Kirk to Robert Craig for land on both sides of Baker's Creek, called it "a branch of Holstein's River," and referred to a "James Thompson corner," and to "a corner to Philip Griever's survey."[73]

In summation, after Smyth County was established, Arthur Hutton (Hatton had become Hutton) purchased from the heirs of James Hutton the Leonard Hutton tract of 66 acres and 40 poles, "on Baker's Branch."[74] A few years later Arthur purchased from "Washington Hutton and Jane, his wife, of Boon County of State of Indiana" the Dixon Hutton land.[75]

The deed from Washington Hutton, dated September 9, 1841, is a Washington County deed after Smyth County had been formed. (The Act creating Smyth County was passed on February 23, 1832.) So both Stahlnacker's Creek and Baker's Creek (or [66]As suggested above, was the early reference in the records to Henedry (Henry) Battan (Batton) a frontier miswriting of Hatton? Anyway, within a few years the spelling of Hatton would become Hutton. Anyone interested in following this development is referred to Washington County Deed Book No. I, 76, 77, 329, 330, 331, 516-517; Deed Book No. 2, 203-204; Deed Book No. 3, 168; Deed Book No. 12, 368; and Deed Book No. 14, 17.

Just a commentary: Anne Humphrey was illiterate; she signed with X as her mark. In the signed papers of those days the men for the most part signed their names. Anne Humphrey was not by herself in being unable to write. Cathr Lefever in a deed used A as her mark, Washington County Deed Book No. I, 444, September 15, 1795, and Susannah Hutton used an X as her mark, Washington County Deed Book No. 3, 168, September 22, 1832.

[68]In the deeds touching Stahlnacker's Creek are references to The Old Patent Line, which apparently referred to the Loyal Company surveys of Dr. Thomas Walker. See Washington County Deed Book No. I, 329, 330, 331. On page 331 the reference is to Walker's Old Survey.

course, can be the Stahlnacker site is that it was a very temporary situation.

The two most western cabins were those of Samuel Stahlnacker and Humphrey Baker. Stahlnacker built his cabin west of that of Baker (the records, maps, etc., give credence to this point of view). Therefore the Creek just east of Mrs. Huff's (Plum Creek — Hutton's Creek) which runs through Fort Kilmacronen is Stahlnacker's Creek, and Bakers Creek is the one which follows the county line. Samuel Stahlnacker's first cabin was built a short distance from the Middle Fork. He subsequently built somewhere in the vicinity of later Washington Springs Hotel on Stahlnacker's Creek (Hutton's Creek or Plum Creek).

the Traditions of Smyth County, wrote that The Town House was built in 1748 by Colonel James Patton. By Wilson's reckoning house building on the Southwest Virginia frontier went this way; he wrote, "This house of Stalnaker's (the one Wilson concluded was built just west of Marion and the ston and Patton's Town House having preceded it."[77]

No one would question Sinclair and Holston as probably being here earlier, but as noted, Stahlnacker's cabin in the "Indian Fields" was along the line between Washington and Smyth, and almost in sight of The Town House; and had Patton built such a structure in 1748 it is most unlikely that Dr. Thomas Walker and his party would have passed a dwelling of such magnitude two years later without making comment in the Journal or without spending the night therein. (Walker carefully chronicled his night of March 21 that he spent at James McCall's, so it is inconceivable he would have helped Samuel Stahlnacker build a cabin on March 24, then camp "about a quarter of a mile below him." — and all this virtually within sight of The Town House.)

The Town House became the westernmost landmark and distances beyond that point were measured from the site: Nine Mile Creek, Eleven Mile Creek, Fifteen Mile Creek, and Eighteen Mile Creek (in east Abingdon) as examples were those distances from this early palatial home.

The earliest event and the earliest date which can be truly authenticated with reference to The Town House occurred in March, 1773. In that month "Joseph Drake was married with Margaret the Daughter of Col. John Buchanan." Margaret's sister, Mary Buchanan Boyd, deposed in Wythe County, November 18, 1809, that the two "were married in March, 1773." James Thompson deposed in Abingdon on October 19, 1809, that he was present "about the year 1773" when the wedding took place and that the young couple were married at The Town House about seventeen miles east of Abingdon." Ephraim Drake deposed in Bedford County, Tennessee, June 26, 1809, that "Joseph and Margaret were married agreeable to [76]On Saturday morning, July 9, 1774, Col. William Christian wrote to Col. William Preston, that he had been shown a letter "at Cedar Creek about 9 miles on this side of Stalnakers." Thwaites and Kellogg, Documentary History of Dunmore's War. 76; ltr., Col. William Christian to Col. William Preston.

In a very unscientific test I drove my car from Cedar Creek eastward toward Chilhowie. I followed Route II (Lee Highway) to Mrs. Margaret Wassum Huff's. (At Fort Kilmacronen which is today the dairy farm of Mr. G. C. "Sonny" Johnson, and his son, David Johnson.) The odometer (speedometer) on my automobile turned to a distance of nine miles as I went down the hill toward the American Furniture Company plant which is on the left of the highway. Beyond on the left, in Smyth County stands the ruins of The Town House, by which runs Sulphur Springs Road. On the right I was almost to the bottom of the hill beyond the home of Gale Lamont Faris — in James Patton's Indian Field.

The Town House in Chilhowie (Smyth County) was the earliest spacious home on the Holston River Frontier. It was built after the return to that area in 1768-1769. The original Town House is the portion between the two chimneys — the addition to the right of the chimney was constructed sometime later. The Town House was of massive logs (in this picture these have all been hidden by weather boarding) and the first major social event was March 1773 (the building was not more than four or five years old) when Joseph Drake married Margaret Buchanan, daughter of Colonel John Buchanan. This building was permitted to disintegrate by the mid-point of the twentieth century. Left to right: Harvey Rector, Claiborne Watkins Beatie, Flora Bailey Beatie wife of Alonzo Beatie (leaning on the window sill at right).

the established custom by Mr. Wolsey a Baptist preacher."[78]

At this point, in a brief essence, in 1755 the German Samuel Stahlnacker and Humphrey Baker and a handful of others made up the westernmost settlement somewhere along the Washington-Smyth County line just west of Chilhowie. The Shawnee came along and shoved the frontier eastward across New River. It would be some thirteen or fourteen years before the settlers would be able to reassert — permanently — their possession of the Indian River — Holston River — Wolf Hills — Abingdon line. It may well be that James Thompson, shortly after the return of settlers to the frontier, built The Town House, and this before March 1773 (Could it be possible that the wedding of Margaret Buchanan and Joseph Drake was the first large [78]Augusta County Circuit Court Causes Ended, Drake vs. Campbell — O.S. 214; N.S. 75. This is excerpted in Chalkley, Chronicles of the Scotch-Irish Settlement, II, 172-173.

The case of Drake vs. Campbell is a mine of information of this area. Col. John Buchanan, Sr., had three sons, John, James, and William. William went to Kentucky and was killed by Indians; James also migrated to Kentucky. Second Lieutenant John Buchanan, Jr., along with Robert Sawyers, was in Seventh Regiment of Virginia Line on Continental Establishment "and in spring of 1777 was detached under command of Col. Morgan from Middle Brook, New Jersey." against General John Burgoyne at Saratoga — at Saratoga Second Lieutenant John Buchanan, Jr., was killed.

After the death of her husband, Joseph Drake, Margaret married William Jones. On October 23, 1810, she was living in Franklin County, Tennessee, having outlived both husbands — Joseph Drake and William Jones. Margaret had at least two sisters — Mary and Anna. Anna was born November 28, 1765, and married Ephraim Drake (Ephraim Drake attended the wedding of Margaret Buchanan and Joseph Drake and probably was his brother) in Kentucky after the death of her brother-in-law, Joseph Drake.

A sidelight in these depositions gives the information that John Floyd sailed as a privateer against the enemy in the West Indies. He sailed December 19, 1776, "and returned in 1779."

Dear Vivian,

I got these wills at a LDS Library. Didn't know if you had them or not.

Don't you think that this is probably our Leonard's dad and mother? Our Leonard would have been around 42 yrs. old when his parents died, if these are them. I had thought that Discon, John H,Sr. & Edward were probably Leonard's brothers (even tho' he didn't show up in the 1830 census with them) but it looks like he had no brothers, just the three sisters. Especially since this James mentioned "my four children". Let me know what you think.

I am sending you some notes I took from another James Hutton's will that I didn't have time to copy all of. This is probably the James on the 1830 Wash. Co. census. Maybe I can get more of this later. It's so hard for me to get to the LDS Library because of the bad hours.

Was real happy to get the other wills. Looks as tho' the account the Phillippi's had of Christly's children was wrong, tho. As you can tell, I didn't copy all the inventory of Christly and trying to get all of James' down was terrible. At least it gives us an idea of their things. It's fun, isn't it? It really tickled me to see how James gave Sarah "Her" saddle. And called the things that goes with a saddle the furniture.

Better get around. Have a lot to do today. Let me hear from you.

Love,

Natalie

James Hutton, Wash. Co., Jan7, 1820. Will

Had more than 4 children. Some were John, Arthur, Sarah, Jane, Elanor, James, Jr. James, Jr. was not 18 yrs. at the time. He willed his plantation and mill to son John. Wanted John & Arthur to see that his daughter learned to read well & James to read & write to the rule of three. Appointed Edward Hatton as exeutor. Signed in presence of James Meek, Dickson Hatton, Wm. Hatton, Edward Hatton.

At a Court held in Wash. Co. 15 Feb. 1820. Last will & testament of James Hutton.

Witnesses Edward Hutton & James Meek. Motion of Ed., exe., ack. of bond in sum of $5,000 with Zachariah Shugart, Wm. Posbon & Andrew Edmondson.

By the way, I don't know what the bond thing is that the executors had to get or sign or whatever on these three wills. I'v never seen this before. Can you enlighten me at all?

Good Morning,

I guess it is. It looks like this is going to be another one of those days of going ten directions at once. You know the kind! I want to get this letter done the first thing, so hopefully at least I will get it mailed today.

First, thanks loads for the info (and land papers). It was funny that I had just talked to Helen in Boise and she said she had no idea ~~the~~ Time Emory had moved to Ca. Thought I might evenually come to it while going through the Capitol Hill Beacon papers. That may take me forever, tho'. I'v already spent hours at it and haven't dented them. I have just got through the first roll of micro-film (1905 thru Jan. 1909) I did run through most of 1918 yesterday (to see if it mentioned the Flanagan's move). Saw nothing.

I found one platt book of OKC in 1910, hoping to find more of Meshack. None of us has known quite where it was except out in the direction of what is now Tinker Air Force Base and Midwest City, Ok. I think I have located it app. I think the name is Mishack (Frank). Anyway, I go to the Dr. today and won't have time to go to the court house, but maybe tomarrow.

It's funny how I'v lived right here all these years. Grew up on Cap. Hill. And 'til the past few weeks, never was too interested in where and how the folks lived. I did know of daddy being in politics. Did know that Emory was the first town marshal, etc. Anyway, anything I find out, I'll let you know.

The micro-copyer that the papers came from was a Minolta. They have just got in a couple at our down-town library for the public to use, that you just drop in three nickles and it prints your film. The whole thing is all automatic. The newspaper dept. (at the Hist. Soc.) where I got the papers even has extra lens that they can exchange to make different kinds of prints. You may write them for any info.

I decided to just get you some more copies of this one page and let you have it made up any way you'd like. Hope this is satisfactory. Also, if you can make out all the notes from the Beacon paper, thought I'd send you a copy of what I have already got. As you can tell, I just roughly typed them up, for my own self, then decided to give Dick a copy and now I'm sending you one. But I just don't have time to type them correctly.

I think it is just great, your getting to go to Salt Lake City and would love to get to be with you, but it couldn't be at a worse time. Maybe someday we can work something like that out. One thing, I sure want you to come to see me when you're coming this way, sometime.

The picture that I'm sending you is one of Willie Hutton's family. He and his wife, Fannie, are the ones that I found while at Hutton's Branch and have been writing to. Our Robert's bro., Edward, is his great-grandad....Edward, William D, Willard Lomas, Willie Laxton. Fannie did not send me dates or anything, but notice that the only sister married a Colley. I just got her marrried name and address (the sister's) and mailed her a letter yesterday asking for info, not only on the Hutton's, but also to find out about her husband's family. Will let you know.

I'v just got to get around. Haven't even rolled my hair (which is an every day thing.) Have a good time on your trip and hope you learn lots.

Thanks for the invite!

Your cuz,

Natalie

Branch) were in Washington County.[76] The only way the Smyth County location, near the golf course, can be the Stahlnacker site is that it was a very temporary situation.

The two most western cabins were those of Samuel Stahlnacker and Humphrey Baker. Stahlnacker built his cabin west of that of Baker (the records, maps, etc., give credence to this point of view). Therefore the Creek just east of Mrs. Huff's (Plum Creek — Hutton's Creek) which runs through Fort Kilmacronen is Stahlnacker's Creek, and Bakers Creek is the one which follows the county line. Samuel Stahlnacker's first cabin was built a short distance from the Middle Fork. He subsequently built somewhere in the vicinity of later Washington Springs Hotel on Stahlnacker's Creek (Hutton's Creek or Plum Creek).

the Traditions of Smyth County, wrote that The Town House was built in 1748 by Colonel James Patton. By Wilson's reckoning house building on the Southwest Virginia frontier went this way; he wrote, "This house of Stalnaker's (the one Wilson concluded was built just west of Marion and the farthest west) was the fourth recorded as built on Smyth County soil. The cabins of Sinclair and Holston and Patton's Town House having preceded it."[77]

No one would question Sinclair and Holston as probably being here earlier, but as noted, Stahlnacker's cabin in the "Indian Fields" was along the line between Washington and Smyth, and almost in sight of The Town House; and had Patton built such a structure in 1748 it is most unlikely that Dr. Thomas Walker and his party would have passed a dwelling of such magnitude two years later without making comment in the Journal or without spending the night therein. (Walker carefully chronicled his night of March 21 that he spent at James McCall's, so it is inconceivable he would have helped Samuel Stahlnacker build a cabin on March 24, then camp "about a quarter of a mile below him." — and all this virtually within sight of The Town House.)

The Town House became the westernmost landmark and distances beyond that point were measured from the site: Nine Mile Creek, Eleven Mile Creek, Fifteen Mile Creek, and Eighteen Mile Creek (in east Abingdon) as examples were those distances from this early palatial home.

The earliest event and the earliest date which can be truly authenticated with reference to The Town House occurred in March, 1773. In that month "Joseph Drake was married with Margaret the Daughter of Col. John Buchanan." Margaret's sister, Mary Buchanan Boyd, deposed in Wythe County, November 18, 1809, that the two "were married in March, 1773." James Thompson deposed in Abingdon on October 19, 1809, that he was present "about the year 1773" when the wedding took place and that the young couple were married at The Town House about seventeen miles east of Abingdon." Ephraim Drake deposed in Bedford County, Tennessee, June 26, 1809, that "Joseph and Margaret were married agreeable to [76]On Saturday morning, July 9, 1774, Col. William Christian wrote to Col. William Preston, that he had been shown a letter "at Cedar Creek about 9 miles on this side of Stalnakers." Thwaites and Kellogg, Documentary History of Dunmore's War. 76; ltr., Col. William Christian to Col. William Preston.

In a very unscientific test I drove my car from Cedar Creek eastward toward Chilhowie. I followed Route II (Lee Highway) to Mrs. Margaret Wassum Huff's. (At Fort Kilmacronen which is today the dairy farm of Mr. G. C. "Sonny" Johnson, and his son, David Johnson.) The odometer (speedometer) on my automobile turned to a distance of nine miles as I went down the hill toward the American Furniture Company plant which is on the left of the highway. Beyond on the left, in Smyth County stands the ruins of The Town House, by which

The Town House in Chilhowie (Smyth County) was the earliest spacious home on the Holston River Frontier. It was built after the return to that area in 1768-1769. The original Town House is the portion between the two chimneys — the addition to the right of the chimney was constructed sometime later. The Town House was of massive logs (in this picture these have all been hidden by weather boarding) and the first major social event was March 1773 (the building was not more than four or five years old) when Joseph Drake married Margaret Buchanan, daughter of Colonel John Buchanan. This building was permitted to disintegrate by the mid-point of the twentieth century. Left to right: Harvey Rector, Claiborne Watkins Beatie, Flora Bailey Beatie wife of Alonzo Beatie (leaning on the window sill at right).

the established custom by Mr. Wolsey a Baptist preacher."[78]

At this point, in a brief essence, in 1755 the German Samuel Stahlnacker and Humphrey Baker and a handful of others made up the westernmost settlement somewhere along the Washington-Smyth County line just west of Chilhowie. The Shawnee came along and shoved the frontier eastward across New River. It would be some thirteen or fourteen years before the settlers would be able to reassert — permanently — their possession of the Indian River — Holston River — Wolf Hills — Abingdon line. It may well be that James Thompson, shortly after the return of settlers to the frontier, built The Town House, and this before March 1773 (Could it be possible that the wedding of Margaret Buchanan and Joseph Drake was the first large

[78]Augusta County Circuit Court Causes Ended, Drake vs. Campbell — O.S. 214; N.S. 75. This is excerpted in Chalkley, Chronicles of the Scotch-Irish Settlement, II, 172-173.

The case of Drake vs. Campbell is a mine of information of this area. Col. John Buchanan, Sr., had three sons, John, James, and William. William went to Kentucky and was killed by Indians; James also migrated to Kentucky. Second Lieutenant John Buchanan, Jr., along with Robert Sawyers, was in Seventh Regiment of Virginia Line on Continental Establishment "and in spring of 1777 was detached under command of Col. Morgan from Middle Brook, New Jersey," against General John Burgoyne at Saratoga — at Saratoga Second Lieutenant John Buchanan, Jr., was killed.

After the death of her husband, Joseph Drake, Margaret married William Jones. On October 23, 1810, she was living in Franklin County, Tennessee, having outlived both husbands — Joseph Drake and William Jones. Margaret had at least two sisters — Mary and Anna. Anna was born November 28, 1765, and married Ephraim Drake (Ephraim Drake attended the wedding of Margaret Buchanan and Joseph Drake and probably was his brother) in Kentucky after the death of her brother-in-law, Joseph Drake.

A sidelight in these depositions gives the information that John Floyd sailed as a privateer against the enemy in the West Indies. He sailed December 19, 1776, "and returned in 1779."

This same case contains a deposition by Samuel Stolucher (Samuel Stahlnacker) which is substantially the same as that of Lyon.[61]

The Deutschers and Scotch-Irish continued their restless westward movement, across Woods (New) River on to the Indian (Holston). Out of the Irish Tract they had become the cutting edge of settlement — roads they needed and roads they petitioned for — and they emphasized that they were the frontiersmen.

"We petitioners, (circa 1749) being the frontier inhabitants of this colony,* labor under great inconveniences for want of a road being opened from our settlement towards the landing, and there being (as we presume) a sufficient number of inhabitants to open one, we therefore humbly pray that your worship will be graciously pleased to take our case under your serious consideration and grant an order for a road to be opened from Zachariah Callhouns, on Reedy Creek, and thence to the Buffalo Lick and from thence the nearest and best way to Woods River, at the upper end of a small island below the mouth of the Little River, and thence towards the forks of Meadow Creek, and thence to the top of the dividing ridge between Woods River and the South Fork of Roanoke, and that John Vance and Alexander Sayers be appointed to mark and lay off said road from Said Callhouns to Woods River, and that John Stroud and James Conley mark and lay off from thence to the aforesaid dividing ridge, etc.

That John McFarland and Joseph Crockett be appointed overseers to open and clear said road from said Calhoun's to Woods River, with the subscribers and the adjacent inhabitants and that William Crispe and William Pellem be appointed overseers from Woods River to the aforesaid dividing ridge, etc., and we, your petitioners, shall pray Hendery Battan (Henry Hattan?), Jacob Goldman, Jacob Goldman (Father and Son — could this be the above "Jacob Woolman and two sons" assigned November 19, 1746, to work the road from Reedy Creek to Eagle Bottom, etc.? — Woolman never again seemingly appears in frontier records), Frederick Cadock, John Scott, John Combe, Samuel Stonacie (Samuel Stahlnacker?), Robert McFarland, John Stead, Mordecai Early, John Downing, Charles Sincler (Sinclair's Bottom in Smyth County), William Sayers, William Hamilton, Robert V(N)orris, Samuel Mountgomery, Andrew Lynam, James Macee, James Heris, Robert Miller, John Miller, Robert Allcorn, William Miller, John McFarland, Joseph Crockett, Val. Wilcher, Humberston Lyon, James Miller, Stephen Lyon, Thomas Barnes, James Willy, John Vance, Alexander Sayers, Jacob Cassall, John Gorman."[62]

The road petition was approved by the Augusta Court on May 23, 1750, (two months after Thomas Walker and party aided Samuel Stahlnacker in building his frontier cabin) when a road was ordered "from Ezekiel Calhoun's (is this the Zachariah Callhouns, on Reedy Creek, named in the petition? — it fits) to Wood's River, thence to Top of Ridge between Wood's River and the South Fork of Roanoke." John McFarland and Joseph Crockett were to be surveyors of former, and Wm. Crisp and Wm. Pellam, of latter part, with tithables, and the following: Henry Batton (Henry Hatton?), Mordecai Early, John McFarland, Jacob Goldman, John Downing, John Goldman, Charles Sinclair (Sinclair's Bottom), Nathaniel Wilshire, Wm. Sayers, Jacob Goldman, Wm. Hamilton, Humbertson Lyon, Frederick Carlock, Robert Norris, James Miller, James Cave, Saml. Montgomerie, Steven Lyon, John Conley, Andrew Linam, James Willbey, Saml. Stanlick (Samuel Stahlnacker?), James Maies, Robert McFarlin, James Harris, John Vance, John Stride, Robert Miller, Alexr. Sayers, John Miller, Jacob Castle, Robert Alcorn, John Forman, Wm. Miller.[63]

On November 21, 1752, Samuel Stahlnacker qualified as a militia "Capn. of Foot" in Augusta County.[64]

It would be November 24, 1753 (Samuel Stahlnacker's cabin had been on the Holston more than three and a half years), when the Augusta Court ordered a road built "from Saml. Stalnaker's, on Holston River, to James Davis's — Saml. Stalnaker to be overseer, with these workers: James Davis

The first cabins of Samuel Stahlnacker and Humphrey Baker gave Washington County Stahlnaker's Creek and Baker's Creek. Today, with interstate roadways and spanning highway bridges, waterways have lost all significance to road users; in fact, local creeks and branches have lost their identity even in farming communities. There no longer is a reason for discussing water courses, for there is always an available bridge. Almost never does one ford a stream in 1976, that is, beyond farmers and property owners on their own holdings.

However, the mention of Stahlnacker's Creek or Baker's Creek was a distinguishing feature of local land deeds made in the late eighteenth, and deep into the nineteenth, century. For instance, Humphrey Baker and his wife, Anne, on February 6, 1788, sold 430 acres to John Hatton, Senior,[66] which were described as being "a certain tract or parcel of land lying and being situate in the County aforesaid (Washington, but it must be kept in mind that this was before the formation of Smyth County) on Stalnaker's Creek granted by the Commonwealth aforesaid to said Humphrey Baker by patent dated November the twenty-third day one thousand seven hundred and eighty-five. Surveyed the ninth day of April one thousand seven hundred and fifty-three, and being a part of an Order of Council granted to the Loyal Company to take up and survey eight hundred thousand acres of land, which Order of Council was established and confirmed by a Decree of the Court of Appeal made in the City of Richmond the Second day of May one thousand seven hundred and eighty-three."[67]

Property on Stahlnacker's Creeek touched other property along the Washington-Smyth line.[68] A deed from John Hatton, Senior, and Jane, his wife, to John Hatton, Junior, had a "corner on David Beattie's Land;"[69] Another deed from the same couple to Leonard Hatton had a, "Beginning at John Beattie's corner," and had a "corner to Robert Baker's survey;"[70] both were on Stahlnacker's Creek. John Hatton, Sr., and Jane, his wife, also deeded land to Edward Hatton "on both sides of Stalnicker's Creek."[71] Robert Baker of Green County, Tennessee, deeded to Dixon Hatton fifty acres "on the east side of Baker's Creek."[72]

Even though Humphrey Baker's original grant was located on Stahlnacker's Creek, he gave his name to an adjacent creek or branch as demonstrated here. Moreover, a deed from John Kirk to Robert Craig for land on both sides of Baker's Creek, called it "a branch of Holstein's River," and referred to a "James Thompson corner," and to "a corner to Philip Griever's survey."[73]

In summation, after Smyth County was established, Arthur Hutton (Hatton had become Hutton) purchased from the heirs of James Hutton the Leonard Hutton tract of 66 acres and 40 poles, "on Baker's Branch."[74] A few years later Arthur purchased from "Washington Hutton and Jane, his wife, of Boon County of State of Indiana" the Dixon Hutton land.[75]

The deed from Washington Hutton, dated September 9, 1841, is a Washington County deed after Smyth County had been formed. (The Act creating Smyth County was passed on February 23, 1832.) So both Stahlnacker's Creek and Baker's Creek (or [66] As suggested above, was the early reference in the records to Henedry (Henry) Battan (Batton) a frontier miswriting of Hatton? Anyway, within a few years the spelling of Hatton would become Hutton. Anyone interested in following this development is referred to Washington County Deed Book No. I, 76, 77, 329, 330, 331, 516-517; Deed Book No. 2, 203-204; Deed Book No. 3, 168; Deed Book No. 12, 368; and Deed Book No. 14, 17.

Anne Humphrey was not by herself in being unable to write. The first cabins of Samuel Stalnaker and Humphrey Baker gave Washington County Somerset's Creek and Baker's Creek. Today, with interstate roadways and planning highway bridges, waterways have lost all significance to road users; in fact, local creeks and streams have lost their identity even in farming communities. There no longer is a reason for discussing water courses, for there is always an available bridge. Almost never does one lord a stream in 1976, that is, beyond farmers and property owners on their own holdings.

However, the mention of Stalnaker's Creek or Baker's Creek was a distinguishing feature of local land deeds made in the late eighteenth, and deep into the nineteenth, century. For instance, Humphrey Baker and his wife, Anna, on February 6, 1786, sold 130 acres to John Hutton, Senior,[illegible] which were described as being "a certain tract or parcel of land lying and being situate in the County aforesaid (Washington) but it must be kept in mind that this was before the formation of Smith County) on Stalnaker's Creek granted by the Commonwealth aforesaid to said Humphrey Baker, by patent dated November the twenty-third day one thousand seven hundred and eighty-five. Surveyed the ninth day of April one thousand seven hundred and fifty-three, and being a part of an Order of Council granted to the Loyal Company to take up and survey eight hundred thousand acres of land, which Order of Council was established and confirmed by a Decree of the Court of Appeal made in the City of Richmond the second day of May one thousand seven hundred and eighty-three."[illegible]

"In the deeds involving Stalnaker's Creek are references to The Old Forest Line, which apparently referred to the Lay of Conway survey of Dr. Thomas Walker. See Washington County Deed Book No. A 329-330-331. On page 331 the reference is to Walker's Old Survey.

I'm interested in ANDERSON families of Washington Co., VA circa 1785-1800. Many of these families descend from my ancestor Peter ANDERSON, b.1706 Delaware. After about 1800 many of his children move on to middle Tennessee and neighboring regions of Kentucky. Among his children were: Eric or Erikus, b.c.1737; Andrew (Andreas), b. 1740, m. 1765 Mary CONNELLY; Christina (Kristina), b.1743, m.1759 Abraham SPRINGER; Margaret (Margreta), b.1745, m.1766 Matthew (Matthias) BRIMBERRY; Peter, b.1750; Susannah, b.1752 m.1769 Isaac WEST; and Sarah, b.1756. There were other children. I have more on Peter, Sr. and his ancestry and wives. Would appreciate any information. Anderson, Brimberry

I am looking for many generations of the HUTTON family that lived in Washington and Smyth Co. The earliest information I have is Col. James HUTTON who came from Pa to Washington Co before 1794. His son Leonard HUTTON married Martha MCCALL in 1793 in Washington Co. Their son Edward HUTTON married Elizabeth WOLFE in 1833 in Smyth Co. Their son Leonard HUTTON married Mary Ann SAWYERS or SAYERS in 1868. Their son Clinton HUTTON married Lillie HUTTON in 1898 in Smyth Co. I am looking for information on Lillie HUTTON as she is a dead end for me. Lillie and Clinton HUTTON had a son named Andrew Talmadge HUTTON who married Della Evelyn Young about 1918. Their daughter Louise HUTTON is my son's great grandmother and was born in 1921 in Bristol. Anyone who had information to share about any of these families would be appreciated. From: Costello <dcostell@suffolk.lib.ny.us>
To: John & Audrey McCall <jamccall@mail.usmo.com>

Dear John,

Hello! it was good to hear from you! My direct line comes from Leonard Hutton who was born in PA (probably York or Chester Co)in 1769 and died in SmythCo, VA on 20 Sept 1863. My dilemma is that there are two Leonard Huttons in the 1810 Census in Washington Co. One is definitely the son of James Hutton and the other is thought to be the son of James's brother John. I haven't been able to ascertain for sure yet which brother is my LEonard's father. There are three marriages for Leonard in Washington Co - one is to Mary Berry in 1791, one to Martha McCall in 1793 and one is to Nancy Baugh in 1818. My LEonard is the one who married Nancy in 1818, but he married at least one other lady and had many children with her. It could be that he married both.

OK, now, There is a James Hutton that was born of LEonard and (probably Martha McCall) probably in 1804. I show him living with Leonard in the following: 1830 Census for Wythe Co: one male between 20-30 (probably James 26) and two females between 20-30 (probably one is James's wife, Elizabeth). 1820 Census for Washington Co: living with his father Leonard - one white male bet 10-16 (probably James 16). In 1810 Washington Co Census I show on BOTH the Leonards that they have one white male under 10 (James would be 6). This is the rest of the information I have for this James: He married twice - once to Elizabeth Phillips and once to Martha Carson McCall in Lee Co, Va, when he was 60 years old and a widower. His children with Elizabeth are:
William J (b1827) who married Sarah Callahan in 1859
Mary Jane (b1830) who married Michael Cormany on 23 Jan 1856 in Smyth Co
John (b1831)
Martha (b1833)
But I don't think this is your James. I give you the information so you can eliminate him.

Now, I know that Col. James Hutton had four children:
Mary b~1762 who married Hugh Smith and she died 7 May 1838
Jane (Jenny) (b1765) who married Capt Samuel Scott and died in 1811 (this side of the family moved to MO!!)
Sarah (b1767) married John Scott (Samuel's brother) They moved to KY in the early 1800's and their children moved to Cole Co, MO)
Leonard Hutton (b1769)

Now there is a fantastic researcher named Dwight Scott who is descended from Jenny or Sarah, I think, who believes that one Leonard Hutton moved with his sisters out to KY and MO area. He thinks my Leonard is his Leonard's cousin. We are still sorting this out. I don't have the information onthe other Leonard compiledyet. It is still in my rough notes. Probably this is going to be the father of your James, though.

Here is the rest of the James info in Washington Co area that I have:
1830 Washington Co Census:
James Hutton page 252. Males: one bet 30-40, one bet 10-15, three under 5. Females: one bet 20-30, two bet. 5-10. Eight people.

James Hutton, page 253. Males: one bet 20-30 and three under 5. Females: one bet 50-60, two bet 20-30 and one under 5. Eight people. This could possibly be him....

I know those marriages with the Orr women. Thomas and Agnes McCall had 8 children, the first was John McCall who married Martha Orr) Martha was the daughter of Arthur and Margaret Orr. She was born in 1769 and died 27 Dec 1844. They were married probably in Tyrone Township, york co, PA and they had 10 children. Their first son, Thomas married Jane Hutton who was the daughter of James Hutton and Isabelle Orr (first cousins). Their second son, Arthur, married Rachel Hutton, also the daughter of James and Isabelle and also first cousins. I can give you more information onthis family if it looks promising.

Sort out my bits and pieces and let me hear from you. I am really interested in establishing my Leonard's parents and sometimes it works by going in another door!!

I am looking for James HUTTON, who was born in PA, maybe in York Co about 1738-40? He married Sarah _____ about 1761 and may have fought in the Rev. War because one of my sources notes him as a Col. James had four children - Mary b~1762, Jane b 1765, Sarah b1767 and Leonard HUTTON, born in 1769 in Woorestown, Chest Co, PA. Leonard is my direct ancestor. I have much information after Leonard. Please email if you have any knowledge of James. Thanks! Diane

Dear Mrs. Jordan:

Enclosed you will find a partial pedigree chart for me that goes back 8 generations. I am fairly confident in the structure of this chart. Please note that there are two different Hutton lines and the Arthur Orr (RIN 1279) who shows in two different lines. My own research has shown me that the McCall and Hutton families had a close relationship for many years. I even found John McCall (RIN 77) and Thomas Jefferson Hutton (RIN 86) in the same household in the 1860 US census of Anderson Co., KY.

I have not been in pursuit of your Leonard Hutton and Martha McCall, as they were not in my direct line of ancestors. However, I am satisfied that your Martha McCall was a sister to my John McCall (RIN 1275). See enclosed group sheet for Thomas McCall (RIN 1277) and Agnes (RIN 1278) from Mrs. Donna Jean Ford. She may have more up-to-date information on your Leonard and Martha. Her e-mail address is: FORDREDJ@aol.com

I can understand your confusion due to the number of Leonard Huttons. I have enclosed a copy of a message from Diane Costello who also mentions more than one Leonard Hutton. You may want to contact her. I found three different entries for Leonard Huttons in the Washington Co., VA abstract of marriage records also. See copy for her e-mail address.

The third source that I have been in contact with is Mrs. Betty Bradley. She has a lot of Hutton information. Her e-mail address is: bumbetty@aol.com

If you have access to a local LDS Family History Library, ask them to order the microfilm or microfiche that has the detailed marriage records for Washington Co., VA. Perhaps you will find a clue from the other names that might have been given as witnesses or bondsmen.

If there were any more of my group sheets that you would like to have, please let me know. I am sorry that I could not solve the mysteries of the several different Leonard Huttons.

Good Hunting!

Sincerely,

John A. McCall

Dear Friends:

In looking over the Edward Hatton research (died ~1777 in Huntington Twp. York Co., PA). He is the father of James and John Hutton who migrated to Washington Co., VA. I found that an early deed dated 1748 notes that Edward Hatton was from Chester Co., PA. So in the past week I have been searching online in Chester Co., PA for mention of Edward Hatton.

It appears that a William and Eliza Hatton arrived on the Vine ship from Liverpoole arriving the 17th day of the 7th month 1684 at Philadelphia. They arrived with several servants and settled in Chester Co., PA They had four children, it appears, one of which may have been Peter Hatton, a shoemaker. I also found mentions of a Robert Hatton, Samuel and John Hatton in some early records.

I have always been uncomfortable with the conjecture in the Simmons book that Edward Hatton was born in Lower Norfolk, VA and migrated North to PA. I think this is another Hatton line. Maybe you will agree.

Finally I did find a mention of Edward Hatton in Chester County, PA:

> On p. 200 of the Futhey & Cope book I find a listing for Edward Hatton in what became Penn township. He is listed as one of the settlers or purchasers on property conveyed by William Penn, the grandson, to William Allen, Esq., of Philadelphia in 1742. The book says, "The tract [sometimes called William Allen's manor] was probably divided among those who had seated themselves thereon, and titles given when they became able to pay for their shares. Commencing at the south end and proceeding northward, the names of those settlers or purchasers were as follows: William Graham, William Neal, Edward Hatton, William Sields, John Wilson... Some of these also held adjoining land in Fagg's Manor." Earlier, this entry states that the original settlers in this area were largely from the north of Ireland.

This is really exciting and may lead somewhere! I continue to search and will try to visit Chester County to do additional research this spring. Edward Hatton and John Wilson were linked in the Christ Church in York Co., PA. (if they are the same people)

Anyone who would like to help search Chester Co. and maybe Delaware Co., PA would be very welcome! Together we can do it!
Update everyone on the list if you can or send it to me and I will notify all.

Warm wishes
Diane Costello

Subject: Uwchland County History Lookup Request

Hi, thank you for your offer.

Would you kindly lookup any mention of an Edward Hatton in your book. I know he left Chester County for York County, PA in 1748. I am trying to trace back his ancestry in Chester County.

Thanks so much

On p. 200 of the Fritz v. Cope book I find a listing for Edward Hatton in what became Penn township. He is listed as one of the settlers or purchasers in property conveyed by William Penn, the grandson, to William Alter, Esq., of Philadelphia in 1742. The book says, "That was (somewhere called William Allen's manor) was probably divided among those who had settled themselves thereon, and titles given when they became able to pay for their estates. Commencing at the south end and proceeding northward, the names of those settlers or purchasers are as follows: William Gruman, William Hall, Edward Hatton, William Blade, John Wilson... Some of these also held adjoining land in Penn's Manor." Earlier, this entry states that the original settlers in this area were largely from the north of Ireland.

Hope this helps.
Happy hunting!
